Carter Welfare Plan Blasted By AFL-CIO

By JONATHAN WOLMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO says President Carter's welfare reform plan would create more than a million low paying jobs that would undercut the nation's wage structure.

Sharply critical of several key elements in the President's package, the labor federation charged Monday the plan would result in a "pool of second-class citizens" and would not provide adequate aid for a family of four.

The organization's executive council said the Carter proposal "falls far short of what is needed to provide the poor with decent jobs or adequate income."

The federation's statement is among the first in what is likely to be a salvo of criticism leveled against the complex welfare reform package by many of the special interests groups that would be affected.

The National Governors Conference, meeting early next month in Detroit, is likely to endorse the welfare measure, but a source said the group is compiling "a growing list of unanswered questions."

The AFL-CIO leaders praised parts of Carter's proposal, but called for an increase in the benefit level proposed by the President. They also favor retaining the food stamp program and revamping the public service wage scale the President recommended.

"The jobs program is really the only new element in the Carter plan," said one state AFL-CIO leader. "It is an unknown. We're studying it with a fine-tooth comb."

Carter's plan would create 1.4 million public service jobs for the out-of-work poor. They would be paid at or near the minimum wage, now $2.30 an hour, or $4,784 a year for a 40 hour week.

The plan would phase out 725,000 public service jobs that pay the prevailing wage through Title VI of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

"The AFL-CIO insists that no individual should be required to take a job, public or private, at less than the prevailing wage," the executive council said in a statement.

The prevailing wage varies according to job description. In Baltimore, for example, CETA pays $9,000 for a counselor for Prisoners' Aid of Maryland and a clerk-typist in a state agency receives $6,880.

Many CETA jobs pay more than $10,000 a year.

The AFL-CIO executive council, made up of 33 union presidents plus top federation officers such as President George Meany, said:

"In its present form, the (Carter welfare) program would create a pool of second-class citizens who would be forced to take public or private jobs at the minimum wage regardless of how far it falls below the actual prevailing wage for the work."

"This would undercut hard-won wage standards of workers in both public and private employment."

Labor leaders worry that it will be difficult to sustain wage increases paid by some state or local governments in cases in which large pools of welfare

SHOWROOM SMASHUP: New Toyota station wagon at Toyota of Benton Harbor logged an accident yesterday before leaving showroom floor. Looking over estimated $1,000 damage is Roger D. Batton, general manager of dealership at 1126 East Napier avenue. Benton township police said 14-year-old boy entered showroom alone and was playing with ignition keys left in car when it started and began rolling across floor. Car crashed through two plate glass windows and stopped when it struck used car in front of building. Driver was not injured. He was identified as David Pugh, son of Mrs. Priscilla Pugh, 1647 Berrien avenue, Benton township. He was turned over to his mother and no charges were filed, police said. Boy's father, Army Staff Sgt. Dennia Pugh, 37, formerly of Sodus, was killed in auto accident Aug. 8 near Ft. Carson, Colo. Killer Teron Sent To Life In Prison

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Clovis Williams, 38, thought police should quit arresting prostitutes and concentrate on other crimes. He declared his opinions in an Aug. 5 letter to the Grand Rapids Press. On Sunday, police arrested him for gambling. Williams was charged with operating an illegal business. Vice squad officers said they arrested nine customers and confiscated liquor, a dice table and several sets of dice.

dations from the sentencing judges that he never be released from prison.

Judges Julian E. Hughes and William S. White, who imposed the sentences, said a person sentenced to life in prison cannot be paroled without consent of the sentencing judge or his successor.

Teron received the prison terms for two second degree murder convictions in the strangulation deaths of an elderly Fairplain widow and an inmate at the Berrien county jail.

Teron was convicted July 13 by a jury of killing Mrs. Norma G. Maxham last Oct. 17 at her home where he had roomed. A week after that conviction he pleaded guilty to killing Earnie Lee Crane June 25 in the jail. Crane's death was first believed suicide.

Because the second offense was committed while Teron was in jail, the law permits a consecutive sentence to be imposed by a judge. This means a convict finishes one sentence then starts another. Most double sentences are concurrent — running at the same time.

Hughes, who sentenced Teron for Mrs. Maxham's murder, said: "This court recommends to the authorities that he (Teron) be kept under close supervision in that he does, in this court's opinion, constitute a real danger to his fellow prisoners and possibly to himself."

"This court also makes the recommendation that this man never be considered for parole. It is this court's opinion that you do not belong in society."

White noted the discretionary rule in life sentences, and said he was exercising that option. "You are to commence serving this sentence after you've completed the sentence imposed by Judge Hughes," White ordered.

White, too, recommended Teron never be released from prison. "I will never approve or recommend your release and will make that recommendation to my successor," the judge stated.

A person sentenced to life for second degree murder normally could be considered eligible for parole after 10 years.

Teron stood through both sentences with arms folded across his chest, showing no emotion.

Mrs. Maxham, 73, was found strangled in her home at 232 Bradford drive on Oct. 24 after neighbors informed police she had not been seen for a week. Trial testimony said Teron had a fight with Mrs. Maxham, beat her into unconsciousness, then trussed her nude body to a bed and strangled her.

Crane, 54, of 255 Wells avenue, Benton township, was being held at the jail on an open murder charge after his estranged wife, Carolyn, was shot to death June 18 in the parking lot of a Benton Heights tavern.

Authorities said Teron had induced Crane into suicide and Crane cooperated to a point, but when he attempted to back out, Teron hanged him.

Both men were among five murder suspects being held in separate cells in a maximum security area of the jail. Tefon had been allowed in a walkway in front of the cells the day of Crane's death, Sheriff Forrest (Nick) Jewell said.

Teron's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Teron Sr., and two of his sisters were killed by carbon monoxide in 1971 when fumes from the family car in the garage seeped through the Teron home at 2720 Lake View avenue, St. Joseph.

Gregory Teron Jr. was in the Army at the time.

'Deadly' Metal Shavings Found

South Berrien Bureau
NILES — State police here said this morning they have located most of a potentially lethal metal reported missing from a Niles township machine shop last week. Police said they have also arrested three Niles men and four juveniles in connection with the alleged theft.

Sgt. Gordon Landon said the metal, beryllium, was found scattered in salvage yards at Niles, South Bend, Ind., and New Carlisle, Ind.

Landon said this morning that some of the arrests, including the four juvenile Niles boys between the ages of 14 and 16, were made earlier this week.

News of the arrests was withheld while the adult suspects were sought, he added. The three adults were identified by police as Ronald Walter, 17, and brothers Gerald Yahn, 19, and Charles Yahn, 17, all of Niles. All face charges of larceny over $100, police said.

Charles Yahn was the latest adult to be arrested when taken into custody last night, Landon said. He was booked at the Niles city jail on the larceny charge.

Muskegon Periled By Poison Gas

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — A round-the-clock security watch begins today on 15 tons of a deadly gas abandoned near here while state officials scramble to figure out how to dispose of it.

The gas, called phosgene, was found abandoned outside a bankrupt chemical company plant. The gas is similar to that used in World War I chemical warfare.

Muskegon County civil defense officials have drawn up plans to evacuate everyone within 100 square miles of the plant in case the gas should start to leak.

The chemical is stored in liquid form in six large tankers outside the bankrupt Story Chemical Co., about three miles north of Muskegon.

Civil Defense director Bernard Brondyk said he is confident no evacuation will be necessary, but officials fear that vandals could puncture the tanks.

The phosgene, which reconverts to a gas when exposed to the atmosphere, is heavier than air and creeps close to the ground without being diluted by the atmosphere.

Wayne Tody, deputy director of the state Department of Natural Resources, is considering several possible ways to get rid of the gas menace.

One is a costly chemical process which combines phosgene with caustic soda in a reaction that reduces the poison to inert components.

Gov. William Milliken's office said Monday it would cost about $50,000 for this chemical treatment and that the state had exhausted the only emergency fund it had for such a purpose. The office said it was looking into other ways of raising the money.

Brondyk said the tanks are thickly reinforced and would be difficult to puncture. He said, however, they are connected with each other and with the main Story plant by pipes which could be penetrated by gunfire.

Story, which is in U.S. bankruptcy court, said all its assets are tied up in that case. It asked for state financial aid to clean up the property and eliminate the gas menace.

Landon said police believe none of the metal shavings have been melted down.

QUIETING PROTEST: As an off-duty colleague (right) wearing earphones watches, an Indianapolis policeman picks lock of a parked police car in order to turn off its wailing siren. (AP Wirephoto)

Police Protest Very Alarming

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Police broke into locked patrol cars parked three deep around the City-County building in downtown Indianapolis to silence the sirens left blaring by off-duty officers seeking raises. Many of the abandoned cars, which disrupted traffic in the area Monday evening, had to be towed away at a cost of $12 each, said Police Chief Eugene Gallagher. He said it hadn't been determined who would pay the towing fees.

The city has offered the 1,100 policemen a $3,000 raise over three years. The Fraternal Order of Police asked for a one-year contract, a $1,000 raise and another $2,000 if the city's take-home patrol car program is abolished. Police are allowed to use patrol cars when off duty. A beginning patrolman makes $10,436 a year.

After the park-in, FOP President Roger L. Blair, a patrolman, met with about 300 dissidents and told them: "We take no further job action until they hear from their executive committee. We have a meeting Wednesday with city officials," Blair said. "They have rejected our previous request, and this park-in is a show of strength."

With Mayor William H. Hudnut vacationing out of state, Deputy Mayor David Frick said Indianapolis "simply does not have funds to meet the FOP demands. Anywhere from 100 to 150 policemen would be laid off for 1978 and there would be additional cutbacks in both 1979 and 1980" if the police demands were met. Police Chief Gallagher said: "I am very disappointed and disgusted with the action. It is a black eye for the department because of this unprofessional action. It makes our department look like asses to the nation."

Wayne County's Judicial Logjam

Moving a case through the Wayne county courts is somewhat akin to paddling a canoe through a river of molasses.

Part of the slowness may trace to the system itself which applies only in Michigan's heaviest populated county.

A Common Pleas court handles civil cases up to a $10,000 limit.

A Recorder's Court is assigned the criminal docket in both felony and misdemeanor complaints.

The circuit court takes appeals from Common Pleas and original jurisdiction in civil actions over the $10,000 limit.

The case backlog in all three aptly represents the dictum of justice delayed being justice denied.

The worst jam is in Recorder's Court.

It has 20 judges before whom 12,000 complaints are lodged annually.

An average 600 cases per judge is an undue load which would become intolerable if many of those complaints were not disposed of by plea bargaining.

Any other approach would mean a choice between two recourses. Dismissing all but the open and shut cases and allowing the criminal element liberty to go and sin once more; or holding the defendant in jails already crowded to the gunwhales.

Recently, Samuel Gardner, the presiding judge in Recorder's Court, ordered his associates to step up the pace in plea bargaining.

Everyone but Geraldine Ford felt into compliance.

Personally opposed to plea bargaining, she insists upon full dress trials or guilty pleas unaccompanied by any understanding with the prosecutor's office that the defendant is copping a lesser plea to avoid the possibility of conviction on a higher charge.

Not many plead guilty before her because she hands out stiff sentences upon a conviction.

Admirable as may be this puristic stance, it does little to expedite matters through the court.

She disposed of a mere 88 cases in 1976 and for the first seven months in this year only 100.

If her fellow judges followed that course, totally they would be meeting only a sixth of the 12,000 case load.

Noting she was elected in her own right to the court, Judge Ford refused to comply with Gardner's order.

He took the matter to the State Supreme Court which, after failing to change her decision, transferred Judge Ford to Common Pleas.

To date she refuses to move over.

The confrontation has stirred wide interest in the Motor City.

A number of the Recorder's Court judges privately sympathize with her stand and one city councilwoman held a press conference in which she stated the situation should be investigated for possible sex discrimination.

Quite likely a majority of the citizenry see Judge Ford standing as Horatius before the bridges to ancient Rome.

All the rhetoric on behalf of Mrs. Ford flows from the idea that judges are put in office to exercise an independent judgment, not to be a cog in a numbers wheel.

It is a worthy principle, one which has served the law and the public well through the years.

The quirk in it is the enfeebled weaponry Detroit can bring to bear against an extremely high crime rate. Neither the city nor the county has the money to enlarge the Recorder's Court to the ratio which Judge Ford's management principle would require.

Neither does it have the funds to build more jails to house more persons waiting trial.

Neither do those speaking actively in her behalf hold the slightest inclination to be taxed more to provide the alternative remedies to the plea bargaining she rejects.

Unless it wants to compromise its authority for all time, the State Supreme Court will have to put Judge Ford on the sidelines and get on with the process of bringing the Recorder's Court up to greater efficiency.

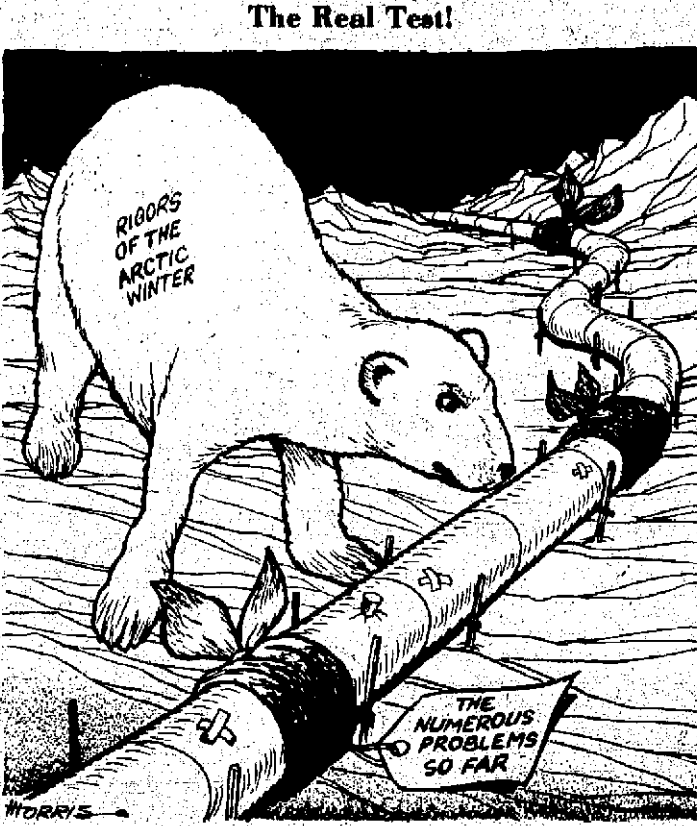

States Seeking More Humane Executions

The death penalty is probably never more popular than immediately after the prime suspect in a particularly brutal crime has been caught. A case in point was New York City's capture of David Berkowitz, who is accused of murder in the "Son of Sam" killings. But if the death penalty is unusually popular in such circumstances, there decidedly is a change of mood in the aftermath of an actual execution — especially one as widely publicized as Gary Gilmore's death last Jan. 17 before a Utah firing squad. Admittedly it was a bizarre case in which the convicted man begged to be killed rather than imprisoned for life. And it was the first capital punishment inflicted in the United States in nearly a decade because of legal complications arising from Supreme Court rulings. But in addition to all that, there was the firing squad — a relic, one thought, of an earlier era or an extremity of wartime military justice.

Persons who believe in the philosophy of capital punishment may be repelled by the manner in which life is actually taken. The public hanging, with its circus atmosphere, disappeared in America early in this century. But then the electric chair, installed as a more humane device for snuffing out life, has produced a host of grim stories from witnesses at the death scene. The gas chamber, usually regarded by penal officials as an improvement over the electric chair, requires a sealed room and a strapped-in victim. The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, surveying the 38 states and the District of Columbia which still retained the death penalty, found last year that 21 used the electric chair, 10 the gas chamber and six conducted hangings (though not public hangings). Utah, one of the hanging states, allows the victim the option of the firing squad.

Oklahoma and Texas have since moved in a new direction, providing for execution by lethal injection. "I think and I hope this will provide some dignity with death," Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe said last May when he signed the injection bill into law, retiring "Old Sparky," the Texas electric chair, to a museum. The law became effective yesterday. The Oklahoma law, signed a few days earlier than the Texas statute, takes effect Oct. 1. Briscoe could have added that for years veterinarians have considered the lethal injection the most "humane" way of putting hopelessly crippled or diseased animals out of their misery. However, its use on humans may not be forthcoming for sometime, if ever. Both Texas and Oklahoma have prisoners under sentence of death but appeals are pending and Supreme Court rulings since 1972 have left the legality of most state capital punishment laws in doubt.

READER OPPOSES HOMOSEXUAL RIGHTS

Editor,

The State Board in favor of Homosexual Rights was an interesting headline in Wed. paper. Are we also to follow what Dade County, Fla., tried to do?

I thought the Civil Rights were to protect the rights of peoples of all creed and colors — now it is just for the homosexual.

I will stand up along side Anita Bryant when it comes to the laws of homosexuals being protected in housing, education, and employment. In Dade County, they tried to say they wanted the right to teach in our schools; but if you read it right, you will see that they want to teach our children that they are living in a permissive society and that this is an accepted way of life.

As a Christian and a Mother, I believe the Save Our Children Organization is a fine cause. When we as a Nation turn our backs on God's moral laws, we are in trouble. All the great nations have fallen because of not obeying God. We think that we have become so sophisticated and intellectual that we need no one.

Romans: 1-26, thru 32 reads: God gave them up unto vile affections for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature. And likewise, also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman burned in their lust one toward another; men with men working that which is unseemly, and receiving in themselves that which was meet. And even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them up to a reprobate mind, to do those things which are not convenient. Being filled with all unrighteousness, fornication, wickedness, enviousness, maliciousness, full of envy, murder, debate, deceit, malignity, whispers, backbiters, haters of God, despicable, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents, without understanding, covenant breakers, without implacable natural affection, implacable, unmerciful. Who knowing the judgment of God, that they which commit such things are worthy of death, not only do the same but have pleasure in them that do them.

We can pray for the homosexual because he is a sinner the same as everyone who is born; but they can be delivered through Jesus Christ. We are not to judge them. We also cannot allow them to tell us what we should do or how our children should accept them. Today we are seeing the breakdown of marriage and homelife as our grandparents never would have believed possible. Why? — because man has broken God's laws. We as Christians must fight and never let these laws be passed.

Please write to your representatives, and to your Congressmen and let them know how you feel. The homosexuals have the funds behind them to fight, but we as Christians have the owner of it all — God!!!

S.R. Banyon, president of the Mercy hospital board, last night announced at graduation exercises for six nurses, the board has under way plans for the erection of a new School of Nursing building. He pointed out that the school has been expanding so rapidly that permanent quarters must be provided if this "little university" is to continue. A campaign to raise funds for new construction will be conducted next year, Mr. Banyon said. It was the eighth graduation since Mercy hospital reopened its training school for professional nurses in the war year of 1942, in response to the government's urgent request.

Lewis Burridge has about completed the school census for this year. Last evening he had yet 10 families to canvass and had on his roll 1650 names. The total number will be about 1,700. The removal of the radiator plant took about 50 school children from the city, and yet in spite of that loss the last school census was nearly 200 below the present figure. It is estimated that there will be an enrollment in the city schools next year of 1,900. About 200 tuition pupils avail themselves of the city schools every year.

White House Defends Lance

"We have made it clear that Mr. Lance has not taken an action that would merit him being run out of government. That's still our view," Powell told a White House news briefing Monday.

Public Tougher On Police Misconduct

WASHINGTON — The continuing controversy surrounding the indictment of former FBI supervisor John J. Kearney may be obscuring a significant shift in public sentiment towards less celebrated cases of alleged police misconduct.

Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell and the Justice Department have been bitterly criticized in some circles for prosecuting Kearney on charges of directing illegal mail openings and wiretaps during a 1970 to 1972 FBI search for fugitive Weather Underground terrorists in New York City.

But most of the public sympathy for Kearney seems to stem from a suspicion that he is being made a scapegoat for the sins of higher-ups in the FBI and Justice Department during the bad old days of the Nixon administration.

You don't hear many people condoning or defending the type of illegal investigative tactics which led to a federal grand jury's indictment of Kearney.

And in fact, there is growing evidence in the Justice Department's own files that the public is losing patience with law enforcement officers who engage in blatant violations of individual rights.

Every year, the department's Civil Rights Division screens thousands of complaints alleging criminal violation of individual civil rights. Although the offenses vary, the bulk of them involve charges of police brutality or other misconduct by law enforcement officers ranging from process servers to prison guards.

Only a handful of these complaints ever result in federal prosecutions. During this decade, the Justice Department has filed criminal civil rights charges against just 90 to 90 individuals per year.

"We've got to have evidence beyond all reasonable doubt before we'll even bring a case," says William L. Gardner, head of the Civil Rights Division's criminal unit. "We don't get involved where there's just a swearing contest between the complainant and a police officer."

Yet despite the department's caution, the conviction rate in criminal civil rights cases used to be abysmally low — slightly less than 20 per cent in 1971 and 1972 for all types of violations, and even lower where law enforcement officers were on trial.

That pattern is changing, however. In 1975, the conviction rate in civil rights cases rose to 43 per cent and last year it reached 61 per cent.

Nearly all of these cases are resolved by jury trials rather than plea-bargaining or trials before a judge alone, so the sharp increase in the conviction rate would appear to reflect a heightened public sensitivity towards official lawlessness.

"Part of it relates to the whole post-terrace morality," says Gardner. "People are generally more skeptical about all public officials, including law enforcement officers."

Then, too, he notes, the social atmosphere has changed immensely since the turn of the decade, when racial disturbances and anti-war demonstrations frightened and confused a great many law-abiding citizens. "Many people in that era found it easier to empathize with the man in blue than with the kids on the streets," Gardner said.

There is, we suspect, a third factor at work: new leadership at the Justice Department and the White House. The old "law and order" rhetoric of the Nixon regime tended to camouflage a shameful official contempt for the rights of citizens perceived as different or disruptive.

Britain's 'Gay' Law Questioned

A decade ago, a member of Parliament named Leo Abse sponsored legislation eliminating most legal inhibitions on English — homosexuals. Last month, in a sensitive essay published in the British "Spectator," Abse looked back on the results of his handiwork.

Abse is relentlessly honest, and though he still supports his legislation on humanitarian grounds, his overall reaction to the results that ensued is decidedly mixed.

Since this entire issue is coming into the political arena here, some of Abse's reflections should prove useful.

Abse and the reformers of a decade ago believed that the legislation would lead to a greater integration of homosexuals into the surrounding society. Their domestic relations would be more stable — in a sense "normalized."

To the surprise of the reformers, exactly the opposite occurred. Society quickly fragmented into a majority culture and a minority homosexual culture. "From the moment the Act was passed, a demand arose from homosexuals that they must have the right to form their own clubs . . . the homosexual, over-determined and defiantly, described himself as 'gay,' and under that banner has now created an alternative society and culture."

"In the wake of the clubs have come 'gay' pubs, 'gay' hotels, 'gay' tourist agencies, 'gay' counselling services, 'gay' pornography, 'gay' Conservative Party groups, and in a vigorous and lively 'gay' press, the 'gay' carpenters, architects, plumbers and accountants offer their services to their own fellow travellers."

Abse believes that the high visibility of this homosexual subculture has undeniably fragmented society and weakened the social fabric, and that it has also increased the incidence of homosexuality within society.

Contrary to the hopes of the reformers, moreover, the new freedom has not led to less frenetic and even pathological behavior. For example, "the 1,500 convictions for indecency between males in public in 1975 is more than three times larger than in 1960 before the passing of the Act." Nor did the Act lead, apparently, to greater stability in these relationships: "the extraordinarily high incidence of syphilis and hepatitis among some 'gays' is an index which can only be unhelpfully interpreted."

The emergence of this homosexual subculture, moreover, coincides with another development which may point to spreading psychological difficulties in the years ahead.

"There is a belief that overt bisexuality is increasing and that particularly among the young it is a phenomenon, if not a fashion, not confined to pop stars. If that is the case, it would not be surprising. Boyhood experience within a unisex society can lead to bewilderment and, in the confusions of adolescence, the youngster can lose his way and grow up uncertain of his identity and lacking confidence in his role."

As Abse admits, his reform Act had all kinds of unexpected and unintended consequences, many of them ominous for the future well-being of society.

SJ Approves Jaycees' Fall Festival Plans

The St. Joseph city commission last night approved plans calling for an arts and craft show, displays of farm produce, and possibly beer and wine concessions as part of a Jaycee-sponsored fall festival to be held in the downtown area Saturday, Oct. 8.

The beer would be sold with hot dogs and bratwurst at a stand operated by the St. Joseph Area Jaycees. The wine would be provided at displays set up by area wineries.

City Manager Gerald Hepler said the Jaycees must still obtain a temporary permit from the Michigan Liquor Control Commission before alcoholic beverages would be allowed.

The group would also have to comply with all city and state regulations applicable to food and liquor concessions, he said.

Bruce Huff, who presented the club's plans to the city commission, said the Jaycees are hoping to make the fall festival an annual event that would generate business activity downtown and provide the club with revenue for its projects.

Questioned after the meeting, Huff said the beer and wine concessions are only tentative and would be cancelled if it appears they will cause a problem.

He said he and other Jaycees were going to meet with Hepler and Police Chief William Mihalik today to work out details.

"The beer was an idea. We may not go through with it," he said.

The concessions and displays would be located on Broad street which would be closed to traffic between State street and Lake boulevard. The festival will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Invitations are to be extended to area farmers, artists, craftsmen and wineries to display their products. If there is a large response, the festival might spill over into Lake Bluff park, Huff said.

The festival is being coorminated with a sale in downtown stores, he said.

Plans are also being made for a pumpkin carving contest for two or three age groups of children with prizes to be awarded.

City Commissioner William Gillespie said the Jaycees should be commended for the work they have put into the plan.

In other areas at the meeting last night, commissioners appointed a 12-member citizens council to plan development of a proposed office district in a three block area bounded by Main, Wayne, Broad and Pleasant streets.

The council will serve as an advisory body to the city commission and will recommend specific development plans, according to Ron Momany, director of community development.

Named to the committee were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burkhardt, Eleanor Radke, John Fellers, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Chandler, Lee Hornack, Atty. George Keller, Francis Noey, Bill Lint, Richard Schanze and Ray Carlson.

In a related move, commissioners approved spending $2,200 to $2,600 for preparation of development plans for the office district. The plans are to be prepared by Barton-Aschman & Associates, Evanston, Ill., the same firm preparing plans for a State street improvement project. The plans will show specific locations for buildings, parking lots and open spaces, Momany said.

The 12-member citizens council will work with the firm in preparing the plans. Frances McBride, of 911 Broad street, asked commissioners how long it will be before the city acquires houses by condemnation in the office district.

City Atty. Arthur G. Preston Jr. said the city could legally begin condemnation proceedings when the city commission adopts the citizens council recommendation, but in actuality probably will not do so because it does not have enough money.

The city has already been acquiring some properties in the area and razing them to make way for eventual office development. Hepler said it would take several years for the city to acquire all the land.

Mrs. Gertrude Dorstewitz, of 809 Broad street, told commissioners many residents in the area felt threatened by the city and are afraid they will be forced out of their homes.

"I can't go out and buy a house with the facilities I have over there on Broad street for what the city would offer me," Mrs. Dorstewitz said.

"If I came out in one of your fancy neighborhoods, I couldn't touch a house for less than $40,000," she added.

Momany responded by saying that city officials will be "especially sensitive to the needs of the residents of that area."

Commissioners voted to hire A.V. Continental Enterprises Inc., of Lincoln Park, Mich., to paint the water tower on the north bank of the St. Joseph river at a cost of $9,500, the lowest of four bids.

The other three bids ranged from $22,476 to $41,000. Hepler said the Continental bid was so much lower that he checked with other cities where the firm had worked before recommending it.

He said officials in Pontiac and Three Rivers were both satisfied with work done by the firm in the past.

Hepler said the tank, which was last painted 12 years ago when it was built, is occasionally described as the "petrified octopus."

Commissioners adjourned until Sept. 12. The meeting that normally would have been held next Monday was cancelled because of the Labor Day holiday.

BH Citizens Protest Park Improvements

The Benton Harbor city commission last night heard citizens' objections to plans to apply for state grants for park improvements.

The commission also learned that Continental Illinois bank, of Chicago, has withdrawn an objection to sale of two buildings of bankrupt Benton Harbor Malleable Industries.

City Manager Melvin Farmer Jr. said the withdrawal of the objection will permit the buyer, Triax Tube Co., to mortgage the property to obtain money to start manufacturing. Continental, a creditor of Malleable, had objected that the city's sale price to Triax was too low.

Three citizens spoke against the park improvements. Harold Hansen questioned putting money into equipment when there is no money for supervision.

"We're going to use new indestructible playground equipment, but how are the children going to be stopped from destructing themselves," Hansen said.

He is a member of the Citizens Advisory board which voted 7 to 6 last week against spending $16,730 in federal community development money for park purposes near the Riverview drive boat landing.

The $16,730 would be matched by a state Department of Natural Resources grant which the commission voted 6 to 1 to apply for. Two commissioners, Mildred Wells and Michael Govatos abstained. Commissioner Charles Yarbrough cast the dissenting vote.

The Riverview money would be used for site work, picnic facilities and a piece of playground equipment.

The other park work involves $20,000 for a shelter at Broadway park, a softball field at Union park and EQUIPMENT AT Hall park. The state and city would each pay $10,000. Five commissioners voted for it, Yarbrough against and Commissioner Tommie Parks joined the abstainers.

Farmer said supervision of children at the parks is primarily the responsibility of parents. "A lot of people want to shift parental responsibility to city employees. That isn't the purpose of these parks; there places where parents can be with their children."

Harry Lee, a Citizens Advisory board member, said he was against funding for the Riverview project because he thought the funds could better be put into improving the city's deteriorating housing.

Leonard Reed of 759 Broadway, who does plumbing inspection work for the city, also questioned whether plumbing at existing parks was adequate.

Mayor Joel Patterson said after the meeting that the Riverview drive area is one of the best riverfront areas in southwestern Michigan and its development is "long overdue."

He said the $16,730 in Community Development funds for the Riverview parks project "would not be a drop in the bucket" in attempting to solve some of the city's major problems such as housing.

Farmer said Continental Illinois agreed to drop the objection to the sale after an agreement was reached between the city and the bank to hire real estate agents to handle future sales of Malleable property. Farmer said the bank has offered to hire a real estate broker and the city has agreed to hire a local real estate agent to work together on future sales.

Under the terms of the federal bankruptcy order ending the Malleable bankruptcy, the city, as a creditor for unpaid property taxes, was named "collecting agency" for the Malleable real estate. The city is to distribute the first $300,000 realized from the sale of the buildings and property among the property tax creditors, notably, the city, county and schools.

If more than $300,000 is realized from the sale of Malleable real estate, the two banks that held mortgages on the property would get the money above that level to split between themselves. The two banks involved are Continental Illinois and Farmers and Merchants National bank of Benton Harbor.

As part of the earlier negotiations with Benton Harbor, Continental Illinois had asked that the limit at which it begins sharing in the proceeds be lowered. Farmer said last night that the bank has now withdrawn that request. "I think we both saw that what's in the best interest of the city is also in the best interests of the bank," Farmer said last night. "I think we're on the right track now."

Yearbook Readied At Lakeshore

Lakeshore high school students and June graduates can pick up their copy of "The Driftwood" Lakeshore's yearbook, on Friday in the high school cafeteria, according to a school spokesman. The yearbooks will be distributed from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and students must bring along their receipt. Yearbooks not picked up on Friday will be handed out on Tuesday, Sept. 6, at 11:15 a.m. in room 222 at the high school.

Washington School Parents Organize

Some 100 parents opposed to the transfer of students from Washington elementary school in St. Joseph organized last night into a Concerned Citizens for Washington School group and strongly supported the neighborhood school concept for the district.

Fears that the transfers were a step toward closing Washington brought responses from Supt. Burton Aldrich and Board of Education President John Pielemeier, who said no plans are being formed now to close Washington or any of the district's six elementary schools.

However, Pielemeier said: "To say we will never close an elementary school would not be practical, unless there is a turn around in population." Pielemeier said since the 1971-72 school year, the number of elementary grade sections in the district has declined from 87 to 70.

Pielemeier said this leaves 17 empty classrooms — "more than any single elementary building in the district has."

Pielemeier said the district this fall will have about 3,700 students and anticipates about 3,550 in the 1978-79 school year. Aldrich earlier said the student population dropped about 500 between 1971 and 1976.

Mrs. Foster (Barbara) Willey of 1009 Court street organized the meeting at the Unitarian church and said afterwards, "I have a lot better understanding of declining enrollments than I did. I still think it was strange that Washington parents were not informed, since the transfers were in the works last June, before the millage votes."

Mrs. Willey said the organization is to be a volunteer effort and will have no permanent chairman. She said the group hopes to meet with school board members and city officials to learn of any new developments that might affect Washington school.

Transfer Of Pupils Explained

The board of education a week ago voted 6 to 1 to accept a recommendation by Supt. Aldrich that some 43 fourth, fifth and sixth graders be transferred out of Washington school. Aldrich last night said parents should know by Thursday where transferred students would be sent.

Aldrich told the parents the 43 were selected from Washington school, because it was to have had the fewest number in these grades — 44 fourth graders, 43 fifth graders, and 46 sixth graders. The district permits no more than 30 students to one teacher.

Aldrich said Washington school is simply going through this year what Jefferson school went through last year, when some children were transferred to Washington.

Aldrich said transfers out of Washington will follow a set format. The first step is to ask parents to volunteer to have their children transferred. The next would be to select children who have been bused to Washington. Last year, children living in Edgewater and Lake View Estates, 2700 Lake Shore drive, were bused to Washington.

Transfer of students living in the immediate area of Washington, 709 Main street, would be the last step, Aldrich said.

He said the administration will take care to avoid disrupting the federally-financed language arts and reading program at Washington.

Aldrich said the district this fall plans to bus Washington first through third graders who reside in the Lions Park drive-

Silver beach area. He cited dangers of walking over the Park street viaduct and across Lake boulevard, State street and Main street. However, children living on the west side of Lake boulevard above the bluff would not be bused, Aldrich said in response to a question.

Washington school is close to the central business district. Some parents criticized Aldrich for an earlier memorandum to the board, saying Washington is the only marketable school building because of zoning. Aldrich last night said he had no intentions of having the school closed and sold, but felt the board should know of all options for any of its decisions.

Aldrich told the gathering:

"The destiny of St. Joseph schools lies in the city of St. Joseph." Aldrich said rejuvenation of older sections and the downtown looks promising.

And Pielemeier told the gathering the future of Washington school "depends on how you react. If you put your property on the market, it will go down the drain."

Not present was Board Vice President James Mason, who cast the sole vote against the Washington transfers. Mason at the time said all the transfers should not be from one school.

Twin City Officials Will Clash

City officials from Benton Harbor and St. Joseph are going to battle — on the softball field. City commissioners and department heads from the two cities have agreed to play each other in a three-inning softball game Wednesday at Camp Warren in Hagar township. The agreement, however, did not come without some heavy negotiations.

Benton Harbor Mayor Joel Patterson offered the challenge in a letter to St. Joseph city officials, saying:

"Because neither of us feel comfortable on the streets of the other, we propose that this event be held at Camp Warren, eight miles north of our cities."

He also added that "to insure fair play by all concerned, we propose that Berrien County Commission Chairman Nancy Clark, with whatever assistance needed from her husband, be invited to umpire."

St. Joseph Mayor Franklin Smith accepted Patterson's challenge, but added his own demands: "To insure fair play to all concerned, especially to all of us who are out of shape, we must have rules: softball will be sixteen inches or larger and use of a baseball bat shall be permitted." The 6 p.m. softball game will be followed by a picnic.

SJ High Yearbooks Available

The St. Joseph high school 1976-77 yearbook, The Mazenblue, can be picked up Wednesday, Aug. 31, between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. at the St. Joseph high school cafeteria, according to Janet Czarnecki, editor of the 1976-77 yearbook.

Tomorrow will be the only date that yearbooks will be distributed before the school year begins. There are extra copies available for those who did not order the yearbook. The price for The Mazenblue is $8.

Around the clock with WOMEN

Weddings

First Baptist church, St. Joseph, was the setting Aug. 13 for the wedding of Kathie Arlette Roberts and John Stancik III. The Rev. Rubin Herrmann of Woodland Shores Baptist church, Bridgman, performed the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Roberts, 1418 Michigan avenue, St. Joseph, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stancik Jr., 3120 Ridgeview, St. Joseph.

The bride wore a chiffonette over tulle gown with lace and seed pearls and designed with a chapel train. A matching lace cap held her walking length chiffon veil and she carried sweetheart roses and miniature carnations.

Mrs. Dennis Patzer, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Dian Packard and Mrs. Dale Nowicki, sister of the groom.

Serving as best man was Dale Nowicki. Ushers were Mark Roberts, brother of the bride, and Dennis Patzer.

A reception was held at Win Schuler's restaurant, Stevensville.

Following a wedding trip to northern Michigan, the couple is residing at 5253 Ridge road, Stevensville.

The bride is a graduate of St. Joseph high school and received a bachelor of arts degree in elementary education from Wheaton college and a master of education degree in special education from Georgia State university. She is a teacher of learning disabled at Colonia

Quick-Change Artistry

Decorators have a secret they aren't telling you — very few of them totally revamp their own homes each time they feel the yen for a change.

Instead, they know you can give a room a fresh look without major outlays just by redoing a single design element, like window treatments, and then reaccessorizing.

You can brighten a room's outlook yourself with new window fashions, and quickly too, without the cost or delay of custom-made draperies. Today, readymade draperies, curtains and window shades are available in a wide variety of designs, textures and color combinations.

Draperies can transform a room because they're so important in creating a mood, in giving a spacious feeling to a small room or lending intimacy to an overly-large one. They can conceal many architectural flaws, so before you shop, look hard at your room and decide on the effect you want to work for.

To make a room appear larger, choose draperies that are the same color as your walls; both should be a light shade. A darker color will have the opposite effect.

In a low-ceilinged room, contrasting draperies hung to the floor can create an illusion of height. If a ceiling is too high, a wide valance linking two windows can bring the lines of sight down.

Artful drapery treatments can work wonders for problem windows, too. Small windows look bigger when curtains extend into the walls on each side. You can make different-size windows into twins through your placement of valances and drapery panels.

Even those pesky high windows found in ranch-style homes can take on a "window-wall" look, when long side panels are combined with matching short draperies from sill to floor. For that "impossible" room-end marred by radiators and jutting walls, consider wall-to-wall drapery drama that adds hidden storage space as well.

Drapery colors, textures, and patterns can all work mood magic in your home. For greater informality, explore the newest warm browns, beiges and rich earth-tones, and nubby textures and open weaves with a handcrafted feeling.

These important natural looks can be harmonized with existing hues in a room, and underscored with new accessories — baskets, pillows, wicker and rattan items.

To bring a more traditional roomsetting a little closer to nature, consider overdraperies in a delicate fern-like pattern, paired with filmy sheers or the new see-through shade that eliminates glare while preserving an outdoor view.

For fresh, bright ideas from decorating professionals, check model rooms in leading home furnishings and department stores. Though most of their window treatments are custom-made, it's easy to translate them using economical, versatile readymades in a wide array of textures, styles, lengths and widths.

TWIN CITIES SYMPHONY

Plan Auditions, Forming Chorus

Twin Cities Symphony will form a chorus to participate with the symphony in the annual classical presentation in March and to offer separate programs throughout the year, according to Mrs. Jerome (Sue) Warren, president.

The exact nature of the chorus' works will be developed by the chorus director and Robert Vodnoy, conductor and musical director of the symphony.

Persons interested in serving as director of the chorus may contact the Twin Cities Symphony office in St. Joseph to arrange for an interview with Vodnoy. A director is being sought who has substantial experience in choral-orchestral repertoire.

Mrs. Warren said, "The twin cities area has long needed a first class permanent choral group with continuity of directorship and leadership which the Twin Cities Symphony can well sponsor and provide."

It is expected that the Twin Cities Symphony's chorus will be the successor to the Cathedral Choral Society which has offered outstanding annual programs during the past three years under two different directors, Mrs. Warren said. That directorship is now vacant due to the resignation of Miss Mary Louise Pierotti.

Auditions for musicians for the symphony for the 1977-78 season will be held Thursday, Sept. 8, from 8:30 to 10 p.m., at the orchestra room of St. Joseph high school, according to Vodnoy.

All musicians with band or orchestra experience are invited to audition. Especially needed are clarinet, trumpet, percussion, French horn, trombone, bassoon, oboe, harp, violin, viola, cello and bass.

All players will present and play a prepared piece and sight read a short passage of orchestra music.

The symphony will present six public concerts and three or four in-school concerts during the 1977-78 season. Rehearsals are held Monday nights at St. Joseph high school. All symphony orchestra members are paid for rehearsals and concerts.

Those wishing further information or to make arrangements for an audition time, may contact the Twin Cities Symphony office in St. Joseph between 9 and 11:30 a.m., or call Robert Vodnoy, Stevensville.

Announce Story Hour

Preschool story hours will begin Wednesday, Sept. 14, at Benton Harbor public library.

Children three through five may attend the weekly sessions held from 10 to 11 a.m. The fall term will continue through Nov. 16 and will include sessions of picture books, filmstrips, songs and games.

Two movies for young people will be offered Friday, Sept. 2, from 4 to 5 p.m. at the library.

"My Father Sun-Sun Johnson," set in Jamaica, is the story of an adolescent boy caught in the midst of a family upheaval. A British teenager discovers the meaning of friendship through the help of an elderly lady in "Friend or Foe."

Filmstrips and cassette-book bags are now available to parents and teachers and may be checked out for one week at no charge.

New books in the junior collection include "Love at First Bite," Jane Cooper; "GHOSTS AND GHOSTIES," Helen Hoke; "The Snop on the Sidewalk," Jack Prelutsky, and "Daddy," Jeanette Colmes.

Plan Historic Tour

A board cross section of significant 19th Century architecture will highlight Marshall's 14th annual Historic Home tour, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 10-11. The event is sponsored by the Marshall Historical society with the cooperation of 35 civic, social, fraternal, and religious organizations.

Billed as a "Third Century Salute," the tour will feature a total of 14 structures open to the public, including four on the National Register of Historic Places. Chief among these is the Fitch-Gorham-Brooks, an 1840 Greek Revival home which is among Marshall's most historic sites.

Now the home of 92-year-old Marshall patron and former mayor (1925-31) Harold C. Brooks, it was once the residence of Charles T. Gorham (1812-1901), banker, merchant, ambassador, abolitionist, politician, and Assistant Secretary of the Department of Interior.

Outside the west entrance of the house is an oak tree under which lawyer Isaac E. Cray, later to be Michigan's first congressman, and the Rev. John D. Pierce, who became the country's first state superintendent of public instruction, met in 1834 to formulate the innovative plans for the Michigan school system.

The other three National Register buildings are the city's three quasi-public museums: the "almost" Governor's mansion (1839), Honolulu House (1890), and Capitol Hill school (1890).

Additional tour highlights include:

- A total of nine private structures including three never before opened to the public.
- The National House Inn (1835) shown partially restored in 1976, and now on tour as a functioning, thriving country inn.
- Cray-Minick Fragment, the rear portion of Isaac Cray's first Marshall home now restored as an office. Built in 1934, it may well be one of the city's oldest buildings.
- G.A.R. Hall (1902), a building recently renovated by the historical society using proceeds from earlier home tours.
- Zion Lutheran church (1901), a Gothic Revival religious edifice which will feature a Saturday afternoon organ recital.

The three first-time houses are the William Biggs residence (Italianate, 1857), the Porter-Sherman home (Italianate, 1844-70), and the Cray-Minick fragment (1834). With the exception of the National House Inn, none of the buildings has been shown more recently than 1973.

The 14 buildings range in age from 75 to 143 years. They represent an outstanding selection of 19th Century architecture, particularly from the 1840-70 period when Marshall was at its 19th Century high-point.

Hours for the event will be 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

The tour also recreates the ambience and atmosphere of the last century with such events as church luncheons, bake sales, antique sale, an arts and crafts fair, band concerts, an ice cream social, Civil War encampment, barbershop quartet singing, and numerous other events recalling the customs and pleasures of 100 years ago.

A collateral feature of this year's tour will be an old-fashioned parade at noon each day. The Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps will be Saturday's feature and highlight of the Sunday parade will be the recreation of the Fifth Michigan Regiment band from Howell.

This Bicentennial project includes an 85-piece Civil War band, historic color guard, folk dancers, banjo band, fife and drum band, all totaling 100 persons.

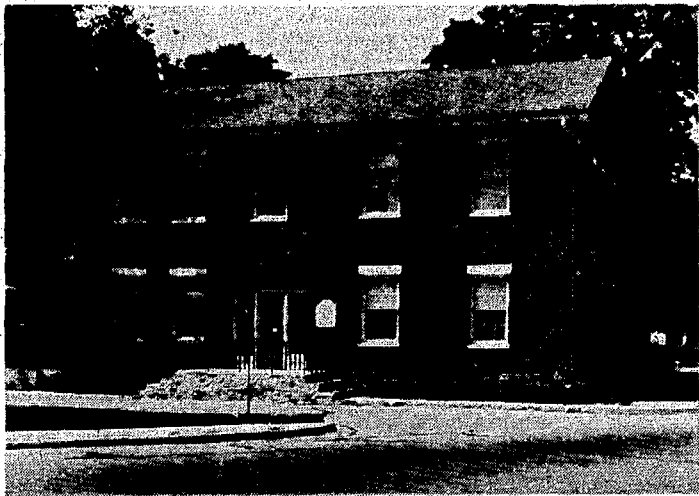

Large free parking areas are available for the event. Free shuttle buses make continuous trips from the parking areas passing within 20 to a few hundred yards of all 14 buildings in the tour.

Working with the historical society and 35 participating organizations are more than 1,400 local volunteers.

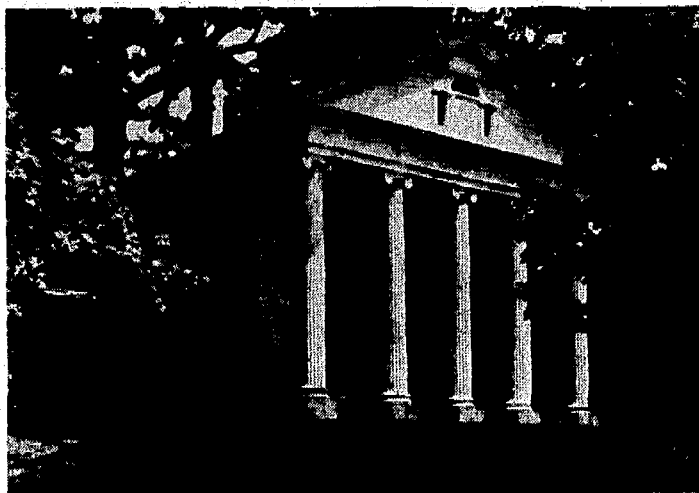

New this year is the society's Brooks Memorial Fountain plate which will be on sale. Also available is the Honolulu House commemorative plate, one of the society's Bicentennial projects.

In an effort to remind citizens and visitors of the city's heritage, home tour profits have been used to purchase 15 Michigan state historic markers over the past five years.

For additional information regarding the tour write: Marshall Historical Society, Dept. 8-10, P.O. Box 15, Marshall, Mich. 49068.

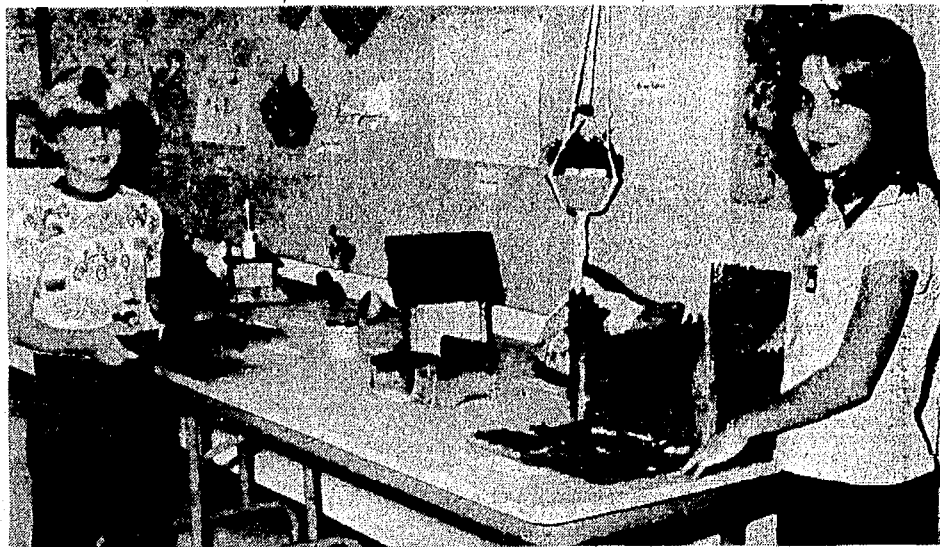

RESTORED COUNTRY INN: Enhancing Marshall's downtown area is the National House Inn which was reopened last Thanksgiving. The 13-room inn was originally opened in 1835 and is believed to be the oldest hotel structure in Michigan.

GREEK REVIVAL STRUCTURE: This home of Marshall patron and former mayor (1925-31) Harold C. Brooks, will be a feature of the home tour this year. The 1840 home is listed on both the National Register of Historic Places and the Historic American Buildings Survey.

Display Handicrafts

SUMMER CIRCUS: Handicrafts made by children who participated in "Summer Circus," the summer reading program at Maud Preston Palenske Memorial library, St. Joseph, will be on display in the library auditorium through Sept. 3, according to Alice Thornycroft, children's librarian. Among the children who made a handicraft from one of the handicraft books read in the program are at left, Scott Deranick,

10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Deranick, 1584 Trebor, St. Joseph, who made a boat, and Mary Jo Burkhard, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burkhard, 315 Church, St. Joseph, who made a castle. One hundred and fifty children participated in the program which concluded Aug. 20. There are 45 handicrafts on display. Thirty-five children received certificates for reading 10 books. GOOD GROOMING

A vital facet of good grooming is to keep grooming accessories clean. Always wash comb and brush in detergent or soap suds every time you wash your hair — more often if hair spray and setting lotions are used.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

In-Laws Snubbed At Funeral

Dear Ann: Recently my husband and daughter and I attended the funeral of my husband's brother. He lived out of town. They were not close, in fact they had seen each other only three times in the last 15 years.

When we arrived at the church the deceased brother's wife took my husband's arm, told him he was to be her escort for the entire funeral. She then instructed my daughter and myself to be seated "over there" — among strangers.

Another brother of the deceased sat with his wife and family (among strangers). Their only sister sat with her husband and their children in another part of the church.

Incidentally, the deceased's brother had three grown sons, who could have escorted their mother if she needed someone by her side. (Apparently they chose not to do so — or weren't asked.)

I cannot believe the woman was so grief-stricken she didn't know what she was doing when she treated me and my daughter so shabbily. I am dumbfounded and annoyed. Should I tell her off? — Georgia

Dear Georgia: Your husband's family sounds rife with internal problems. You should not expect normal behavior from people like that. A woman whose sons would not be by her side at such a time has enough heartache. Don't create more by "telling her off."

Look Other Way

Dear Ann Landers: What can we mothers of dirty daughters-in-law do to get them to clean up their filthy houses?

It seems there are so many girls today with new homes and every gadget and appliance you can think of to make life easier. Yet clothes are scattered all over the place, the dishcloths are dingy, the draperies are never cleaned and the bathrooms smell terrible.

One of my daughters-in-law complains that her husband never comes home after work. Why should he? It looks like a chicken coop and smells like pigpen.

We worry about the grandchildren getting some fatal illness. What can a son's mother say? — Hate To See It (La Crosse, Wis.)

Dear Friend: If you hate to see it — don't look. As for what to say — say nothing.

Unless your son is blind and his "ol' factory" has shut down he can see and smell as well as you can. (Maybe better.)

No daughter-in-law ever cleaned up her house to please her mother-in-law. Any suggestions along those lines would be unwelcome. So M.Y.O.B. and don't worry about the grandchildren. They are probably immune to everything by now.

Really Gold?

Dear Ann Landers: I have been seeing Mr. G for about eight months. He has given me some nice gifts — mostly jewelry. First a gold bracelet, then gold earrings and last month a wrist watch with 16 diamonds that look like glass.

Problem: The gold turns my wrist and ears green and one of the diamonds broke in half. Does this mean the jewelry is fake? — Just Wondering

Dear Just: If you want an accurate evaluation of the jewelry, take it to a jeweler. This I can tell you, however — even fine gold will cause a wrist or an ear to turn green if the person's chemistry is a little off. As for the "diamond," it's possible to crack a real diamond, but it would require a very hard blow.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long,

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Aug. 31, 1977

This coming year you will become more closely allied with persons of initiative and ambition. One such arrangement may lead to something substantially profitable.

VIRGO (Aug. 22-Sept. 22) An opportunity to alter a condition that has worked to your disadvantage may suddenly present itself today. Don't use subtle strokes if boldness is required. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Early in the day you may be plagued with an attack of indecision. Later you'll have the courage of your convictions — and successes to prove it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) What appears to be an unwelcome responsibility will turn out to be a challenge laden with promise, a pleasant surprise in its store.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Follow your hunches today in speculative ventures. Your guess is as good as others and in some instances better.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In competitive situations today assess your opponents sensibly. Don't endow them with pluses they don't possess. Don't underestimate yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Affix your signature to your work today so that another doesn't take credit for something he isn't entitled to but you are.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This will be a profitable day for you — not necessarily materially. You'll accrue wealth in things that won't rust.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Skilful self-seeking inclinations today and strive to be cooperative. Noble motives will instill in others a desire to treat you in a similar manner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Problems today are no match for your ingenuity if you choose to apply yourself. Be creative, not coerced.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Friends will rally to your banner more readily today once they're assured you're being frank with them. Hold no axes up your sleeve.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It's very important today for your self-esteem that you do that which you believe to be right, even if it's an unpopular action.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) First thoughts are not necessarily your best ones in business situations today. The bulb brightens after you mull things over.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

We don't know if this hand shows experts at their best or worst. South was Claggett Bowle of Baltimore. Claggett knew that he had underbid his hand. He also noted that while the play for seven was poor indeed, six notrump was just as sure a contract as six spades. Since the game was match points, Claggett decided to find some way to make an extra trick at his six-spade contract.

When East discarded a heart at trick one it appeared that the normal play for seven — a heart finesse, followed by the play of the ace to drop the king — would not work.

What would? Maybe West would hold the singleton king or if he held a doubleton king, West could be persuaded to throw the king away. West was an expert and would not think Claggett held as strong a hand as he did.

So Claggett drew trumps, cashed the clubs and diamonds and then played his ace of hearts.

The ordinary West player would never throw the king of hearts, but this West was an expert. He finally decided that Claggett had started with ace-x in hearts and that it was up to him to chuck his king to avoid being end played. He did just that and Claggett had his over-trick.

Ask the Jacobys

An Arkansas reader wants to know if we ever bid a Blackwood four notrump with a void suit.

We try not to, but there are very few nevers in bridge and we have made this normally bad bid on occasion.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write Ask the Jacobys, care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

SH Lamaze Classes Will Begin Sept. 12

Family" and "Story of Eric," will be shown at 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 1, at the church.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I want to do weightlifting and strength exercises to really build up my muscles over a year or two. I don't want to be a "Mr. Universe" but would like to have good muscles. If I stop the exercises later, and have an office job, will my muscles retain their shape or will they be prone to "fall" in a shorter-than-normal period of time compared to a person who developed muscles by normal hard-working labor? Or does the method of muscular development matter?

DEAR READER — It really doesn't matter how the muscles were developed — by an exercise program in the gym, at home, or exercise resulting from physical labor.

The point is that the more muscular development you have as a result of the work-exercise if you then stop and do very little it will look like the muscles disappear faster than in a person who has smaller muscles to start with. That is because the person with less developed muscles has less to lose to get to the same inactive level, so the change is not as striking.

You could maintain your muscles, though, with a reasonable program of exercise one day a week. While we think endurance exercises such as walking and jogging should be maintained more often than once a week to maintain optimal fitness, muscle strength can be maintained with a once a week program.

To give you more information about muscle development and strength and how to maintain what you've got I am sending you The Health Letter number 54, Weight Training for Energy and Weight Control. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1861, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. As that issue explains, by maintaining your muscle mass you can help prevent obesity. A short period of strength exercises once a week after you develop your muscles will be as effective in preventing obesity as long time intervals spent in walking and jogging. The secret is in developing muscles and maintaining them. It makes a difference whether the body weight is from fat or muscle.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you tell me what the difference is, if any, in taking regular thyroid tablets and taking kelp tablets? I've heard and read that both have iodine and help the thyroid gland to manufacture thyroxine which an underactive thyroid needs. I'm taking two grains of thyroid daily but would prefer to take kelp if it would do the job as well.

DEAR READER — Kelp is a seaweed and it contains iodine. If a person is deficient in iodine it is a useful source for it. However, it is not the same thing as thyroid tablets at all and cannot be substituted for them.

Thyroid tablets do not contain iodine. They are replacement hormone for the natural thyroid hormone, thyroxine, produced by the thyroid gland. The reason for giving thyroid tablets is because a person's own thyroid gland does not produce enough thyroid hormone. That condition is seldom related to iodine deficiency — although iodine deficiency can cause goiters of the thyroid gland. Usually low thyroid function is an aftermath of an inflammation of the thyroid gland, often unrecognized. I think you had better stay with your thyroid tablets if your doctor thinks you need them.

Dr. Lamb answers representative letters of general interest in his column.

Be Concerned About Weight

There's more reason to be concerned about being overweight than not having as svelte a figure or as trim a physique as you might like.

Overweight or obesity (the difference is a matter of degree) tends to seriously increase your chances of developing high blood pressure, heart disease, diabetes if you are predisposed, as well as a number of other diseases that are at least complicated by overweight.

Announce WMU Season

KALAMAZOO — Western Michigan University theater has announced its 1977-78 season featuring six Shaw stage and four Arena stage productions ranging from contemporary comedy to Elizabethan tragedy.

This production year will mark the University Theater's 10th season in the Laura V. Shaw theater complex and includes the 300th production presented at Western since theater began in 1908.

Opening the Shaw stage season and playing Sept. 14-17, is "Butterflies Are Free." Leonard Gershe's comedy follows a blind, aspiring songwriter who asserts his independence and tries to escape an over-protective mother by moving into a cold-water flat in New York City. He befriends an actress-neighbor who proposes true friendship and the breaking down of all barriers — including the connecting door.

Following on Shaw stage will be the musical version of J.M. Barrie's fantasy, "Peter Pan." Performances are scheduled for Oct. 26-29 plus a special children's matinee Sunday, Oct. 30, at 3 p.m.

"Peter Pan" is produced in conjunction with the department of music.

Restoration comedy comes to Shaw stage Dec. 7-11 with Moliere's "The Miser." Moliere presents a greedy, conniving widower who in turn is duped by his children in this comic intrigue complete with chases, miserly tactics and rare wit carried to the ridiculous extreme.

June Havoc's "Marathon '33" will be presented Feb. 8-11. Havoc's comedy-drama is set in a second-rate dance marathon which provides an engrossing commentary, humorous and scathing, on our society.

"Marathon '33" has been called a "a warmly human and fascinating drama that at the same time is macabre and horrifying."

Rosamund's opera, "The Barber of Seville" opens March 1 for a three-day run. The opera, produced in conjunction with the department of music, is a comedy of intrigue, mistaken identity and romance that pokes fun at the 18th century French aristocracy.

Closing the Shaw stage season will be Shakespeare's masterpiece, "Hamlet," the story of the tragic young prince out to avenge the death of his father.

Performances are scheduled April 12-15. "Hamlet" will be the 300th production by the University theater.

The Arena stage season opens with Euripides' tragedy, "Hippolytus," with performances Oct. 12-15.

The "poet of Athens and master of pity" tells the story of Phaedra, helpless in the grip of her violent emotion, who is goaded to madness by the unforgiving cruelty of the world eventually causing the death of her own stepson.

"Children's Experimental Theater" is scheduled for performances Nov. 18 and 19.

"Children's Experimental Theater" is an experience of human beings sharing the joy and wonder of the imagination and will be created especially for fourth through sixth graders.

"The Wedding Band," by Alice Childress, will be presented on the Arena stage Jan. 25-28. Childress' love/hate drama of a black seamstress and her affair with a German baker is set during World War I.

The Arena stage season closes with Paul Zindel's comedy, "The Secret Affairs of Mildred Wild," with performances March 29 through April 1.

Mildred is a devoted movie fanatic who meets daily crises with fantasies drawn from her previous lode of old movies.

Season subscriptions are available to WMU staff and student patrons for $10 and community patron subscriptions are $12. Each subscription allows six admissions to Shaw stage productions with a maximum of two admissions per production.

Individual tickets go on sale beginning Sept. 5 for all 10 productions.

Ticket office hours are noon to 5 p.m. daily and noon to 8:30 p.m. on performance days. Information and reservations may be secured by contacting Dan J. Martin, department of theatre, college of fine arts, at Western.

Coloma Chapter Meeting Friday

COLOMA — Coloma Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star, will meet Friday, Sept. 2, at the Coloma Masonic Temple.

Memorial services will be held at 7:30 p.m. and Advanced Officers' Night will be held at 8 p.m.

Black Woman Judge Wins Fight To Block Transfer

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Geraldine Ford is back on the job today, the victor in a battle with the judicial system in Michigan to relegate her to civil court cases.

The decision to reinstate Judge Ford came from Michigan Supreme Court Chief Justice Thomas G. Kavanagh.

Chief Recorder's Court Judge Samuel C. Gardner, who requested her transfer to Wayne Common Pleas Court, said Judge Ford will participate in a pilot program where she will be relieved of her cases and will handle trials specially assigned by him.

Paw Paw Board Eyes Strategy

PAW PAW — The Paw Paw school board met in executive session here last night to discuss strategy for negotiating sessions with teachers on a new master agreement.

According to Dr. Norval Bovee, superintendent, the two-year master agreement expired Aug. 15. He said the teachers last spring requested to be represented by a regional bargaining unit. That unit would be made up of most of the 11 school districts in Van Buren county.

Bovee said that contracts in only Paw Paw and South Haven were expiring this year and that all others would not expire until next year. Bovee said negotiations in Paw Paw are continuing and there has been no settlement yet.

The board met in public session before adjourning to the private discussion.

In a face-saving measure for her superiors, Judge Ford agreed to the temporary reassignment of her personally selected court clerk, Robert Chemotti.

Regarded as the toughest law-and-order judge among the 19 in recorder's court, Judge Ford was transferred last week after refusing to comply with a crash program to reduce a backlog of cases in Recorder's Court, Detroit's main criminal court. The program involves plea bargaining — pleading guilty to a reduced charge in return for a lesser sentence. Judge Ford opposes plea bargaining.

Groups ranging from the liberal NAACP to the conservative Police Officers Association of Michigan marched to her defense in a demonstration by 150 persons last Friday in the city's hall of justice.

The transfer of the black woman was denounced as racist and sexist. Prosecutors lauded her tough handling of criminal cases — she is known as "mean Geraldine" — and lawyers called her an excellent jurist.

Court officials said she handled fewer cases than any other judge on the bench. Gardner said Judge Ford won't have to handle any plea bargaining procedures — an area where she was termed "too slow" by her superiors.

Asked what role public pressure played in his decision, Judge Kavanagh said, "It is difficult to say. I certainly kept it uppermost in my mind to resolve this matter as quickly and as peacefully as we could and to that extent it played a role." Kavanagh originally agreed to transfer Judge Ford after Lesinski made the request.

Judge Ford was to report Monday to the Wayne County Court of Common Pleas, but she didn't show up. Special Court Administrator T. John Lesinski had threatened last week to seek contempt of court charges if Mrs. Ford did not report to her new assignment by Monday.

Elected to her post by Detroit voters, Judge Ford's only statement after the agreement was reached was:

"There is no question here and no question in my mind that the primary concern is the efficiency and quality of the court. I prefer not to discuss it any more."

Kidnaper, Victim In Wisconsin?

ANTIGO, Wis. (AP) — FBI agents discounted one lead and focused on another today as they pressed the manhunt for an escaped convict who allegedly abducted the wife of a retired university vice president.

Agents said they had largely discounted one report that off-duty Milwaukee policemen had spotted convicted burglar Douglas Henry, 22, of Lansing, Mich., about 6 p.m. Sunday near Marinette County's Wausaukee on the Wisconsin-Michigan border.

Instead, the FBI focused most of its attention some 45 miles to the west on Langlade County and a report that Henry and Evelyn VanTassel, 58, of Marquette, were seen about 1:30 p.m. Sunday in the town of Lilly.

About a dozen FBI agents set up headquarters here, 15 miles southwest of Lilly.

"We're hoping for another sighting," said J. Gerard Hogan, special agent in charge of the FBI's Milwaukee office.

"We're pretty sure he's here in Langlade County. It doesn't look like he's slipped away," said an Antigo city police officer.

Federal kidnapping charges, carrying a possible life sentence, were filed Monday in U.S. District Court in Grand Rapids, Mich., against Henry, described by his stepfather as a "wild man" who walked away from a prison farm near Marquette Aug. 22.

He was accused of kidnapping Mrs. VanTassel from the VanTassel summer cabin near Marquette, Mich., last Thursday after breaking out of the Magnum Prison Camp nearby.

The FBI's best lead was provided by Lee Pendleton, 70, who said he saw Mrs. VanTassel and a young man about 1:30 p.m. Sunday when he went to check on his son's log cabin in Lilly.

"I walked up and he said, 'Hi.' He (Henry) was making macaroni on the grill outside, and he kept hollering to someone inside the cabin, 'Mum, did you put salt in this macaroni?'"

Pendleton said a woman, whom he later identified from pictures as Mrs. VanTassel, walked to the front door of the cottage but did not speak.

Pendleton said he drove off from the cottage and called local sheriff's deputies because he knew the people were not supposed to be at his son's cottage.

By the time deputies arrived about 4:30 p.m. Sunday, the pair had left, Pendleton said. Pendleton said Mrs. VanTassel appeared unharmed.

The report discounted by the FBI came from off-duty Milwaukee police officers who told Marinette County Sheriff's deputies they spotted a blue Volkswagen Dasher near Wausaukee.

The VanTassel car that Henry took with him as a blue VW Dasher.

The officers did not report the sighting immediately because they did not know of the abduction until they heard about it later on a news broadcast. The off-duty officers contacted troopers in Stephenson, Mich., state police said.

Camp Chief To Resign

BLOOMINGDALE — Jerry Jennings, Fairplain, has announced his intention to resign as director of the Van Buren youth camp here.

Jennings, 29, said the resignation is effective Dec. 31. He has served as a director for the past two years. His salary was $2,810 per year for the part-time position.

A first grade teacher at Roosevelt elementary school in the Lakeshore school district, Stevensville, Jennings said he wanted to devote more time to his family and personal concerns.

Jennings has been involved with the non-profit summer camp for 21 years as a camper, counselor, staff member and director. He is originally from Lawrence.

Camp officials are currently seeking a replacement and have asked that those interested contact the camp, route 1, box 285, Bloomingdale.

ISN'T CABLEVISION THE SAME AS PAY TV

WHAT IS THE COST OF CABLEVISION?

WHAT ABOUT COLOR TV RECEPTION?

CAN THE SET IN MY ROOM BE CONNECTED?

ABSOLUTELY NOT!
Cablevision subscriptions are purely voluntary; the choice is yours. There is no contract to sign. All you have to do is call for a cable installation.

ABSOLUTELY NOT!
Pay TV is a programming service in which the subscriber pays for each program he selects. Cablevision, on the other hand, provides a service whereby the subscriber has his set connected to a master antenna. You select the programs you wish to watch. The monthly service charge remains constant, regardless of the number of viewing hours or programs you enjoy.

AMAZINGLY LITTLE...
Amazingly little...since the one time installation charge for a single residence connection is only $20.00 with a monthly service charge of $5.95. This amounts to less than 20c per day.

A FANTASTIC IMPROVEMENT!
It has been said that color TV and cablevision are perfect mates - for it provides the finest in color reception, all the time.

SHORELINE RESIDENTS WARNED

Lake Erosion Called Inevitable

BY NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

The district chief of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers gave some simple advice to members of the Lake Shore Property Owners association Monday night:

"If you're living on the lake, it's wise to be back a ways," Col. Melvyn D. Remus, district engineer for the Corps' Detroit district, said building structures to stop Lake Michigan erosion and planting certain varieties of grasses on the dunes might help lakeshore dwellers save their property. But the simple fact is, according to Remus, that "This section of the shoreline is going to erode."

The shore will erode because at times the lake level rises.

Most rising and falling of the lake's level is due to the amount of precipitation, he said.

Remus, who addressed the association's annual meeting at Win Schuler's restaurant, Stevensville, told an audience that included 55 of the association's 250 members that accurate records of lake levels exist from 1890 to the present. Today, the lake is at about its average level, he said.

In 1952, for the first time in decades, Lake Michigan's level went up. It fell later, but beginning with 1970 and continuing through 1975, the levels were very high.

Never before has the lake been at high levels for five years, as in the early '70's, "but that doesn't mean it can't happen again," he said.

One association member asked Remus what property owners could do now that the lake's level is lower to combat a future rise in the water level. "Nothing," he answered.

Another member asked what kind of erosion control device Remus would recommend. He answered that while some structures seem to work better than others in certain kinds of weather, "If you can let Mother Nature take her course, try it."

Another association member suggested that it was man's structures — such as piers jutting out into the lake — that caused the erosion problems. Remus conceded that, in part, was true. Government projects such as building feeder beaches to attempt to compensate for erosion caused by piers are "a form of restitution" for property owners, he said.

"Do feeder beaches work?" another member asked. Remus said it's too early to tell if they serve to halt, or compensate for, erosion. Feeder beaches have been built at St. Joseph and South Haven to compensate for the loss of the beach through erosion.

He added that a joint commission of Americans and Canadians studying the Great Lakes concluded it would be too expensive to regulate the levels of Lakes Michigan, Huron and Erie. Superior and Ontario water levels are regulated.

The association, organized in 1969 by Chairman Donna Asselin, is made up of Lake Michigan property owners from as far away as Michigan to the south and Arcadia, near Ludington, to the north.

Mrs. Asselin, of Shoreham, was re-elected chairman last night. Other officers of the association are: Frank Lahr, Stevensville, vice chairman; Maria Melcher, Lincoln township, secretary; and Betty Nurse, Shoreham, treasurer.

BACK HOME: Colonel and Mrs. Melvyn D. Remus chatted with Mrs. Donna Asselin (right) last night after annual meeting of the Lake Shore Property Owners association. Remus, district engineer, is head of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' Detroit district, which includes Southwestern Michigan. He was guest speaker at meeting at Win Schuler's, Stevensville. He and his wife, the former Frieda Fugate, graduated from St. Joseph high school in 1950. The colonel's mother, Mrs. Erna Remus, lives at 812½ Winchester avenue, St. Joseph. Mrs. Asselin of Shoreham is chairman of the association. (Staff photo)

New Berrien Program Launched For Dropouts

Berrien county's 70001 program, aimed at finding employment in the retail business field for high school dropouts, was previewed by county officials yesterday.

Nancy Clark, chairman of the county board of commissioners, and others involved with the new program expressed optimism for the project during a press conference at the courthouse.

"I couldn't be more excited about this program," said Mrs. Clark. "It's been highly successful throughout the country. The big difference between this and some other programs is that the kids will have a future when they finish."

Introduced during the press conference were Carlton Campbell, who will serve as program manager, and Stella Rolfe-Wayo, program coordinator.

Berrien county is the first in Michigan to undertake the program, to be funded by a $115,000 federal CETA grant for one year. The funds are to be used for administration and related items, officials said, and are not used to pay participants in the program. Wages will be paid by the employers.

The 70001 program will attempt to provide unemployed dropouts with assistance in finding work in the merchandising field and getting a General Education Development certificate, the equivalent of a high school diploma. Although funded by the Comprehensive Employment Training Act, the county's Youth Services Bureau is the sponsor.

Program personnel said the 70001 project is now accepting applications from youths who qualify, who will receive pre-employment training and on-the-job training when a job is located, in addition to help while working for the GED. Applicants should apply at the 70001 office, located at 145 West Main street, Benton Harbor, in room 203.

Program sponsors estimated 50 youths would be placed in jobs initially, and the figure may go up to 75. Campbell said that although no businesses have yet been contacted about employing the applicants, during the planning stages about 12 businesses in the Twin Cities gave favorable reactions to the program.

Mrs. Clark said the program would initially focus on the northern part of the county, and, if successful, be expanded to the south county.

Charles Kehoe, director of juvenile court services for Berrien, noted the dropout problem has hit Berrien county hard, and it has recently been among the top three counties in the state for dropout rate. He said a state education department report for 1973-74, the latest issued by the department, indicated Berrien had 12,456 students in grades 9-12 and 1,237 dropouts.

Campbell, the program manager, is 44 and will receive a salary of $14,300. He received a masters in business administration from Andrews university this year with an emphasis on management and finance. He previously worked as an accountant and counselor in the Washington, D.C., area.

Mrs. Rolfe-Wayo, 25, is from Benton Harbor, and will be paid $13,273. She attended Lake Michigan college and received a bachelor's degree in merchandising from Eastern Michigan university. She has also worked for the City of Benton Harbor as a research analyst and for Whirlpool Corp. in sales, promotion, and advertising.

The program's 70001 title is taken from a line item in budget in one of the school districts where the program originated several years ago.

PROGRAM LEADERS: Stella Rolfe-Wayo is coordinator and Carlton Campbell is director of new Berrien county program that will attempt to place high school dropouts in retailing jobs. Administration and training costs will be paid by federal funds while employers will pay wages of those hired. Name of 70001 program came from line item budget number in one of school districts where program originated several years ago. (Staff photo)

'Michigan' Champ Will Try Again

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Having won $212,000 already, Richard Gasser of Flint returns to defend his champion's position in the weekly lottery "Michigan" show Thursday.

Gasser, 36, a draftsman and part owner of Gasser Engineering, will face six new challengers for his "Super Player" title. He defended it successfully last week.

The challengers are: —Dorothy George, 25, of Fraser, who has six children.

—Sabah Hakim, 34, of St. Clair Shores, manager of a Hampton's super market.

—Aner Hamosh, 29, of Flint, an Iraq native who owns a grocery store.

—Nora Jackson of Flint, a retired school teacher.

—Nellie McFarland of Taylor, a housewife.

—James Shay, 61, of Flint, a machine set-up employee at A.C. Spark Plug in Flint.

Quake Shakes

PALMER, Alaska (AP) — A moderate earthquake with a preliminary magnitude of 5.4 on the Richter Scale occurred about 130 miles northwest of Anchorage, the earthquake observatory here reported.

Don't Cluck It

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Some special Philadelphia disease sentries really have a job to cluck about. They get winters off. And all they have to do is eat, drink and be merry — and be chickens. The one drawback for the 35 leathery fowls who help guard the city against encephalitis, a deadly mosquito-borne virus, is they have to give blood once a week. They don't like it. "It takes a couple of men to do it; one to hold the chicken and one to bleed it," said Rudolph Sutton, chief of pest control for the city's Health Department. The 35 white leghorn chickens are kept in seven coops strategically located throughout the city where they act as live bait for hungry mosquitoes. The blood tests show whether the virus is around. Besides the fringe benefits, occupational hazards are minimal. The virus known as St. Louis encephalitis, which can be fatal to horses and humans, doesn't phase chickens at all, Sutton said.

Carter Wheat Cutback Not Enough, Farmers Say

By PAUL STEVENS
Associated Press Writer
WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — President Carter's proposal to cut wheat production next year will hardly make a dent in the nation's grain surplus, breadbasket farmers say.

The wheat surplus has grown steadily while the price per bushel has declined from $5 three years ago to less than $2 now.

Carter proposed on Monday a 20 per cent reduction in planting next Spring. Some farmers would have preferred a 25 per cent reduction. Still others say that a greater reduction would be needed to decrease supplies enough to raise prices.

Richard Theurer, a grower in Sumner County, near the Oklahoma border, calls the 20 per cent cutback a "very small reduction" in light of the huge surplus of wheat.

"It's something for the speculators to play with on the Board of Trade," he says. "If he (Carter) had announced a 50 per cent cutback, then the cash price would have 'zipped up to $6.'"

"It may take four years of set-aside programs to get the supply back in balance with demand before the state's wheat growers see prices get back where they were three years ago," says John Junior Armstrong, president of the Kansas Farm Bureau.

"We have enough wheat on hand now to keep bread and Wheaties on grocers' shelves for four years without planting any wheat at all next month," he adds.

Armstrong says he would have preferred a 25 per cent set-aside figure but speculates that "20 per cent is likely all the Carter administration figures it can sell the nonfarm public on supporting."

Earl Hayes, president of the Kansas Association of Wheat Growers, says the 20 per cent figure is "the absolute minimum."

Long before Monday's announcement farmers had received sufficient feelers from Agriculture Department officials touring the state to guess what an approximate set-aside figure would be.

"This is kind of what we were preparing for," says Warren Conrad, who farms 1,300 acres of wheat near Hutchinson, 40 miles northwest of here.

Hayes says the actual effect on production may be watered down by farmers who either set aside their least productive land or who add more fertilizer to maximize yields on the land they do plant.

"I think probably 40 to 50 per cent of the farmers may do some of this, like add more fertilizer. But they won't all do it," Hayes says.

Conrad disagrees, contending that current low market prices have reduced farm profits to the point that few could afford the cost of applying additional fertilizer.

One question that remains unclear to Kansas wheat farmers is what they will be allowed to do with the land they set aside.

Hayes says it isn't certain whether the land must remain idle.

"If we can divert to some other crop use, I'm sure there are some who probably will," Theurer says.

Indians Called 'Em 'Hamacas'

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 10,000 hammocks will be sold in the U.S. in 1977, according to a National Geographic Society survey of the $5-million-a-year industry.

The society says Christopher Columbus and his men were the first Europeans to see a hammock, used by the Arawak Indians, who called it a "hamaca."

British sailing tars were allowed 14 inches of width in which to sling their tough canvas hammocks in the heyday of English naval power. Petty officers were given two feet.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT? — Armando Arias, a building superintendent in New York City borough of Queens, looks through one of nearly 10,000 books he discovered in apartment of a tenant who apparently vanished Sunday. A former librarian himself, Arias found the books when he entered the three-room apartment to serve an eviction notice to the tenant, known only as A. D'Aurelio. Some of the books were borrowed from public libraries as long ago as 1952 and the whole bunch is estimated at $100,000. (AP Wirephoto)

Ford Defends Safety Of Pinto

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. says its Pinto appears safer than comparable cars in rear-end collisions, but a critic who raised the safety question says Ford is dodging the issue.

The automaker defended the subcompact Monday after accusations by a writer and consumer advocate Ralph Nader that Ford knowingly sold unsafe Pintos from 1970 through 1976.

Ford said the Pintos are not firetraps and contended the subcompact "appears to be superior" in crashes compared to cars of similar size and weight.

"They didn't even touch the central point," replied Mark Dowie of Mother Jones magazine. "The point is, Ford continued to manufacture a car that it knew was dangerous."

Nader and Dowie charged Aug. 10 that Ford officials sold Pintos for six years even though they knew the fuel tank could rupture in rear-end accidents. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said Monday it is still gathering facts to determine if a formal investigation of the Pinto is needed.

Nader has urged an immediate recall of the three million 1970-76 Pintos now on the road. He said the company had modified the 1977 models.

But Ford blasted the charges, which appeared in the September-October issue of the West Coast-based publication circulated to 150,000 subscribers. The company repeated its earlier comment that the article contained "distortions and half-truths."

"There is no serious fire hazard" in the fuel system of the Ford Pinto, nor are any Pinto models exceptionally vulnerable to rear-impact collision fires," said Herbert Misch, Ford vice president for environmental and safety engineering.

Misch said federal statistics refute the magazine's claim that 70 or more persons burn to death each year because of fuel-tank fires in Pintos.

Figures from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration show that 848 people died in 1975 in car accidents involving fires. Twelve of the 848 were in Pintos, and two of the 12 had been thrown from their cars, Misch said.

Last year, Pinto occupants accounted for 11 of 942 fatalities in fire-associated car crashes, the company said.

"In 1976, Pintos accounted for about 2 per cent of all cars in operation, while the involvement rate in fire-associated fatality reports was only 1.17 per cent," Misch said.

"This is evidence with substance — objective statistics on how the Pinto performs in 'real-world' accidents — and it totally discredits the opinions of the alleged safety experts quoted by Mother Jones."

But Dowie said his fatality statistics were too conservative, if anything.

"Ford does not say my story is not true. They say it is filled with half-truths. If there's anything wrong, it's that my own estimates of deaths is too low. They don't deny they knew of the fire hazard."

Dowie claimed Ford President Lee Iacocca was in a hurry to start making the Pinto in 1970. Dowie said the company ignored tests showing the fuel tank was susceptible to gas leaks after an accident because it was too close to the rear bumper.

Ford admitted on Monday that the early Pintos did not pass rear-impact tests at 20 miles an hour. But it denied charges that the test results

Canal Pact Gets Union Backing

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO is set to become the first major group to support President Carter's plan to relinquish control of the Panama Canal.

The organization's executive council is expected to approve a resolution of support backing the President today.

Meanwhile, Carter arranged for a briefing for leaders from Georgia and Florida as part of his strategy of rallying support for the agreement.

A spokesman for the White House, which faces an uphill battle to build public support for the pact, said he hoped treaty negotiator Sol Linowitz could change some minds in the meeting.

Officials from Kentucky and Mississippi were briefed in a similar session last week. The spokesman said groups from other states will be invited if the briefings prove to be a success.

Traditionally the AFL-CIO is conservative in foreign policy and defense matters.

But on Monday, the council's president, George Meany, said he sees no reason "to lay claim to territorial rights that were established 70-odd years ago."

Meany, usually a hardliner on defense issues, told a news conference the history of American involvement in the canal is nothing to be proud of.

"I'm talking about the way the Panamanians were treated and the way we actually financed the revolution and sent in American troops," he said.

"My general attitude is that there is no particular reason for us holding onto territory 6,000 miles away just because we built the canal on somebody else's land back in 1904."

It would be the first endorsement by any major group since the battle lines were drawn over the treaty, under which the United States agrees to give control of the waterway to Panama by the year 2000.

Opposition to the treaty has come from Southern senators, conservative groups and veterans' organizations.

Carter has acknowledged that public support for the treaty is weak, but predicts he can win the necessary 87 Senate votes for ratification if he can sell it to the American people.

The treaty contains provisions protecting the employment and bargaining rights, wages and working conditions of Canal Zone workers. AFL-CIO officials said these clauses were a key factor in winning the labor federation's support.

Unions affiliated with the AFL-CIO represent about 13,000 American and Panamanian workers in the Canal Zone.

Carter telephoned Meany last Wednesday to enlist his support. Details of the conversation were not disclosed.

Hunters Of Killer Seeking Cash

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — A homicide task force, fearful that south Oakland County's child killer may resume his pattern of wintertime killings, has asked for additional funds to keep the task force going until next March.

State and federal money for the unit will run out Oct. 11, they said. State Police Lt. Robert Robertson, task force commander, said he would like to keep the unit functioning because all four of the child killings under investigation occurred during the winter season.

The task force suggested that Oakland County and nine nearby communities should each contribute $1,700 to keep the task force operational through the winter.

He said it now numbers 45 officers and will be reduced by two thirds, when the federal funds run out. Cuts will be made even if local communities agree to supply extra money.

The task force made its request to Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson and Sheriff Johannes Spreen of Oakland County and to the mayors and police chiefs of Berkley, Birmingham, Ferndale, Franklin Village, Oak Park, Royal Oak, Southfield, Troy and Livonia. All but Livonia are in Oakland County while that community is in Wayne County.

Strong support for continuing the task force came from police chief Jerry Tobin of Birmingham who said, "Whether we like it or not, we are married to the task force and no independent department is going to be able to solve this crime on its own."

The request for additional funds will be put before the local councils in early September.

Jackson School Chief Facing Charges

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — School Supt. Richard H. Escott has been charged with obtaining money under false pretenses from an expense account.

The six misdemeanor counts were filed Monday by Jackson County Prosecutor Edward Grant, alleging that Escott misused the account to the tune of $169.74 between November 1976 and February 1977.

Escott is accused of paying for business expenses with school credit cards, then charging the school district a second time by submitting receipts for the expenses and pocketing the money.

Each charge carries a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail and a $100 fine.

"I deny it. No crime was committed," Escott said. "My main concern right now is to get the school year off as smoothly as we can. As far as I'm concerned it will be business as usual."

The superintendent is expected to be arraigned within the next day or two.

Democrats Rap Women's Commission Appointment

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Majority Democrats slated a closed-door caucus for today to decide whether to oppose the governor's latest appointment to the Michigan Women's Commission. The appointment was sharply criticized Monday by Democrats who accused Gov. William Milliken of stacking the panel with Republican women.

Two Republicans were among several women who also blasted the makeup of the commission and urged broader representation. Senate Majority Leader William Faust called it "a travesty of the law."

"The preponderance of Republicans on the commission indicates the Women's Commission is becoming an arm of the Republican Party," Faust said.

A Democratic-controlled committee which reviews gubernatorial appointments put off action on the appointment for at least a day. The Democratic Senate has until Sept. 7 to reject the appointment if it wants to. Unless it acts, the appointment takes effect automatically.

The commission is charged with studying women's problems and needs, recommending programs to meet them, combating discrimination and helping women obtain jobs and education. Democrats on the Senate Business Committee agreed the appointee, Mary Low, a state labor department employee, has excellent credentials and is well qualified for the job. But, they said, the commission is over-weighted with Republican women and offers little representation for blacks, Jewish women, low-income women and several other categories. "The proportion is ridiculous, especially on a sensitive commission like this," said Sen. Daniel Conner, D-Oak Park. "What's at issue is the governor's insensitivity to including all spectrums of society on this commission."

There was conflicting testimony as to the political makeup of the 15-member panel. One Republican woman, Lee Kefauver, put it at 11

Republicans, one Democrat and three independents. But Sen. Robert Davis, R-Gaylord, who defended the governor's choices, said it was seven Republicans, two Democrats and six independents.

But there was general consensus that several minority categories of women were not adequately represented. And several women said the commission's accomplishments have been limited, in part because of its makeup. "I think that what the commission has become is a token," said Annette Miller, vice president of the State Board of Education. Miss Low agreed the commission should represent all women, and declared she was sensitive to the needs of groups which were not represented. She was an informal member of the board, working as liaison with the labor department, before her appointment in July.

Three Charged With Trespass At Presley Tomb

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Three men seen fleeing from Elvis Presley's tomb have been charged with criminal trespassing in what police said was a plot to snatch the singer's body from a steel-lined, copper-plated coffin and hold it for ransom.

But police said the body stealing plot may be difficult to prove because of a lack of evidence, noting that neither burglary tools nor explosives were found.

Charged were Ronnie Lee Adkins, 28; Raymond M. Green, 25; and Bruce Eugene Nelson, 30, all of Memphis.

TV Evangelist Suggests Elvis Had Premonition

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The television evangelist who spoke at Elvis Presley's funeral said he and the singer wept and prayed together at a Las Vegas hotel and Elvis said, "Christ is gonna come real soon, isn't he?"

The Rev. Rex Humbard, who preaches to millions of TV viewers around the world, said in an interview Monday that he was summoned by Presley last December, just before Christmas.

Humbard said he and his wife went to the rick 'n' roll star's dressing room at the Las Vegas Hilton Hotel. He said Presley greeted them with words of praise for the TV show, saying he was an avid viewer.

"Then, he sort of paused, staring off into space," Humbard recalled. "Suddenly, he turned around and motioned us to follow him. We went into a very small room, like a closet, and he pulled the door."

"For 30 minutes," said Humbard, "Elvis talked of nothing but the Scriptures. He quoted the Old Testament of the Bible."

"He said, 'Christ is gonna come real soon, isn't he?'" Humbard recalled. "I said, 'Yes, I think so.'"

Humbard said Presley spoke of biblical predictions of events which would precede the Second Coming, including famine, pestilence and other ills, and asked, "Isn't that happening now?"

"I could sense the urgency of the hour," Humbard said as he recalled Elvis' comment. "We don't have long then, do we?"

"I said, 'No, we don't,'" Humbard recalled.

After Elvis had spoken of the Bible for some time, the evangelist said, "I just reached over and took both his hands in mine and I said, 'Elvis, right now, I want to pray for you."

"He said, 'Please do,' and he started weeping. He just emotionally shook and trembled. All of us in the room were weeping. It was a tremendous experience."

Humbard said he told the story of Elvis' prayer at the private funeral services in Memphis, Tenn., and "I cried — I just couldn't help it."

He said he decided to tell the story publicly after receiving approval from Elvis' father, Vernon Presley. "Vernon said, 'My boy's not an angel, but tell it like it is,'" Humbard said.

Reflecting on the incident now, he said, "I think it was a premonition or something. He was reaching for something spiritual and I think he found some of what he was looking for."

'God Hates Me' Sniper, Wife, Son Dead

By GEORGE ESPEY
Associated Press Writer
EAST HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — An ex-convict, driven by bitterness, killed his wife and son, then shot himself to death today after holding nearly 100 police at bay for 16 hours from a barricaded apartment, authorities said.

"God hates me, life is terrible, it stinks," said the gunman, Frank DeCorleto, 34, shortly before he took his own life.

"It's all over," a state police spokesman said as the siege came to an end.

Police Chief Clarence Drumm, one of the authorities who pleaded by telephone with DeCorleto to give himself up, said that at one point the gunman "alluded to the fact that society had treated him badly because he was an ex-con." He had served time for killing a woman in 1963 in Georgia.

At different points during the negotiations, DeCorleto blamed God, life and society, Drumm said.

Drumm had said during the night that DeCorleto would rather kill himself than return to prison. "He's intent on taking his own life. He feels he doesn't want to go back to jail," Drumm said.

Earlier, DeCorleto, telephoned the Hartford Courant and told a reporter he had shot his 22-year-old wife, Shioehon, then his 4-year-old son, Frank III, when the boy came running toward him.

He said he had his son's blood on his hands and sobbed, "All I had in the whole world was my son."

State Police Commissioner Edward P. Leonard said that on several occasions, DeCorleto talked about his dead son and said he couldn't understand how he could have done such a thing.

The siege began shortly after 4 p.m. Monday. DeCorleto said he had a rifle with 500 rounds of ammunition, two shotguns with five or six boxes of shells and a pistol with 300 rounds of ammunition in the second-floor apartment.

He said he shot his wife because "she gave me a hard time," and the boy because "it's a rotten, stinking world."

"They're dead," he said. "I'm all boarded up. I've killed my four-year-old son. He's bleeding all over the place."

Drumm said DeCorleto "discussed with me what he had done to someone who will never reach his fifth birthday. He gave a very graphic description."

"I'm a human being," said Drumm. "I gave him any assurance a Christian gentleman could give him for his well being and safety." Drumm said psychiatrists who advised him in the negotiations said that was probably the wrong tact to take.

"He wanted to die," Drumm said. "He had no desire to go on. We knew that from the start."

He said discussions throughout the night with DeCorleto proved fruitless.

Shortly after 7 a.m., police heard a noise but weren't sure what it was. Police then fired a tear gas grenade into the white, wood-framed home. When it brought no response, three state policemen and a dog entered the house and found the bodies. The wife was found in the kitchen and the boy was found lying on the floor of the bedroom. DeCorleto's body was found on the floor of the bedroom.

Police said the gunman told them by phone he was unable to get a job because he is an ex-convict and threatened to start shooting people.

Hundreds of neighbors and spectators were cleared from the area as the gunman sporadically fired shots from the apartment. No one was hurt, but two police cars were hit. Police made no effort to rush the apartment.

The gunman's former wife, Kathy DeCorleto, 24, first heard the news on television, where police appealed to the gunman to surrender. She rushed to the scene but was not allowed through police barricades.

She sat instead, in slacks and sandals, her face in her hands, weeping, on a sidewalk curb two blocks away.

"They let him go and they let him take my son," she told reporters. "I told them this would happen again in court. Nobody listens."

In Georgia, records show that a man named Frank DeCorleto pleaded guilty in the 1963 shooting death of Mrs. Aldene Cote Austin, 20, of Brunswick, Ga., wife of a Naval petty officer at the Glynnco Naval Air Station. He said he had stopped to see her en route from Connecticut to Florida. He told police the woman's dog nipped him on his hand and he bit the dog on the paw.

"Don't do that, you're crazy," Mrs. Austin told him, records show. He then told police, "The minute she called me crazy, I knew she was as good as dead."

Georgia police quoted him as saying at the time that he had been under psychiatric treatment.

Coloma Twp. Planners OK Two Rezoning For Duplex

COLOMA —The Coloma township planning commission last night recommended two of 17 lots in the North Park subdivision be rezoned from commercial to multi-family residential to allow construction of a duplex.

The commission took no action on rezoning the remaining 15 lots in the subdivision, according to Charles Abrams, commission secretary. The recommendation now goes to the township board for final approval.

The request to rezone the 17 lots was filed July 25 by Raymond Wells of Park Forest, Ill., with plans outlined to eventually construct six duplex houses in the subdivision.

The two lots, 16 and 17, located along Paw Paw Lake road, will accommodate one duplex house, according to Abrams, with Wells expected to request rezoning of the remaining lots over the next several months.

In other areas, the commission undertook a study to amend the township building ordinance regarding the minimum square feet required for all residential dwellings, including single-family, duplexes, and apartments.

Fennville Board Vote Accepts Supt. Tackmann's Resignation

TV APPEARANCE: Tommy James, whose career started when he was a high school student in Niles, will be featured on Wolfman Jack television show, Monday, Sept. 19, at 7:30 p.m. on WKZO-TV, Channel 3, Kalamazoo. Singer formed his group The Shondells at age 12, and now James, 29, has a new record album titled "In Touch."

FENNVILLE — The Fennville school board last night voted to accept the resignation of Supt. James Tackmann so he may accept the position of superintendent at Cedar Springs.

In a 6 to 1 vote, the board released Tackmann from his contract that was to run until July, 1979, but stipulated that Tackmann remain on the job for another 30 days.

Casting the lone vote against accepting the resignation was board member Clifford Paine. Voting for acceptance were members Karen Schermer, Margaret Sessions, Ronald Heschel, Donald Nye and William Edholm, and Board President Willis Mullen.

Paine told the board he felt there was justification for making a counter salary offer. Tackmann indicated when he announced his intention to resign his reason for leaving was financial. His salary this year was $24,800 at Fennville. His salary at Cedar Springs will be $28,000 annually, he said.

Tackmann told the board last night he did not want the board to attempt to keep him by increasing the salary offer. "I've not been shopping around for a better deal," he said. "I request that the board not bargain. I'm just not comfortable with that." No counter offer was made.

The board voted to begin screening applicants for the post and set a special meeting for Thursday to start the process. The board also voted to screen applicants from within the Fennville system for the first two weeks before accepting applications from outside the system. Additional special meetings were tentatively scheduled for Sept. 2, 7 and 8 if needed to conduct interviews with applicants. Those special meetings will be open to the public, Mullen said.

Shooting Ruled Self Defense

Berrien Prosecutor John Smietanka said today there will be no prosecution of Mrs. Helen Wade in the shooting death Aug. 20 of Willie L. Simpson, 58.

Smietanka said Simpson was shot and killed by Mrs. Wade, but an "intensive investigation" by Benton Harbor police and the prosecutor's office showed there was self-defense.

Smietanka said investigation showed Mrs. Wade shot six times at Simpson, "most hitting him," at the doorway of her house, 1065 Pavone street, Benton Harbor.

But Smietanka said there was "a well-documented series of contacts between Simpson and Wade in which he was the aggressor and a continuing pattern of harassing telephone calls at all hours of the day and night."

Simpson had been told to leave Mrs. Wade's property the night of the shooting, but refused. She got a .22-caliber pistol and ordered him to leave. He continued walking toward her, challenged her to use the gun and had one hand in his pocket as he approached her, according to Smietanka.

After being shot, Simpson staggered into the street where he was found and taken to Mercy hospital. He died later that evening. No gun was found on Simpson. He lived at 211 Lawrence drive, Benton township.

"When a person is put in reasonable fear of death or serious bodily injury by another the victim has a right to defend themselves (sic) with deadly force," Smietanka said.

"Where there is an alternative, by retreating, the victim ordinarily must take that course. However, the law also provides that one is not required to retreat in their own home."

"It is the conclusion of this office, based upon the Benton Harbor police department's investigation and including results of polygraph testing of Mrs. Wade that the above findings are accurate, and when considered in the light of self-defense, indicate no prosecution is appropriate," Smietanka said.

"While law enforcement in such cases actively solicits information from all citizens which might be of value in getting at the truth, the spreading of malicious rumors in the communities at large concerning the parties involved does no good for anyone and can only create false views of what happened. This was true in the matter of the death of McElbion Tisdal and is true in the Simpson-Wade case," Smietanka concluded.

SOUTH HAVEN CRASH: South Haven ambulance attendants give aid to Regina Davis, 48, on stretcher, and James Babcock, 28, still in jeep following two-car crash at M-43 and Blue Star Memorial highway in South Haven at 7:50 this morning. Also injured in crash was A.A. "Eddie" Smith, 66, Van Buren county treasurer, standing at extreme right. All three South Haven residents were undergoing treatment at South Haven Community hospital late this morning. State police at South Haven said Smith's car was eastbound on M-43 and was waiting on traffic between lanes of Blue Star when Babcock jeep, northbound on Blue Star, skidded sideways into side of Smith's car. No tickets have been issued yet in connection with accident, police said. (Tom Renner photo)

Man-Fires-Gun Complaint Probed

A Royalton township man was arrested Monday and booked for investigation of a charge of obstructing a police officer when police from three agencies investigated a complaint of a man firing a gun, according to Berrien sheriff's officers.

Deputy Tom Exum said Ray Leoni, 54, of 354 Maiden lane, was arrested after he allegedly failed to give officers identification when asked, refused to give an account of an alleged incident involving the firing of a gun and grabbed ignition keys from a patrol car.

According to Exum, he was dispatched to the Leoni residence at 8:40 p.m. and learned from Mrs. Hilma Leoni that four shots had been fired into the ceiling of the home by a man who also threatened to shoot himself. Exum said St. Joseph township Patrolman Kevin Kramp, and Lincoln township Patrolmen Don DeFord and William Spencer were at the scene when he arrived.

Exum said no charges had been filed in connection with the alleged gunshot incident.

St. Joseph township police said vandals smashed a ceiling panel light fixture above the northeast entrance to North Lincoln elementary school Monday night. Officers estimated replacement cost of the light at $100. The school is in the St. Joseph district.

Benton township police said they apprehended three boys ages 10, 11 and 13, when Patrolman Jim Windsor saw a group of boys throwing rocks break a street light Monday.

Windsor reported the boys were released to parents after the 9:15 a.m. arrests which resulted from the breaking of a street lamp at the intersection of North Pike road and Crawford drive. The boys were charged with malicious destruction of property under $100 and were to be petitioned to juvenile court, Windsor said.

State police from the Benton Harbor post said a man was booked at the Berrien county jail on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon — a .38-caliber pistol — after troopers stopped an auto on I-94 in Benton township Monday.

Trooper Greg Fouty reported Larry K. Peters, 28, of Chicago, was arrested after an auto observed traveling at 75 miles per hour on eastbound I-94 was carrying open intoxicants in an auto and two bottles of liquor were seized.

Driver of the car, Sharon J. Wilson, 23, of Chicago, was ticketed for speeding, Fouty said.

Benton township police reported three thefts Monday:

—Four spoked hubcaps valued at $200 from a 1977 Dodge Charger owned by Richard Palmer, 1944 East Britain, while the auto was parked outside her apartment.

—Five tires on rims valued at a total of $225 from a mobile home owned by Robin Woolley, of 2068 East Empire lot 120, while the home was parked on lot 149 of that address.

—Cash totaling $99 from the Glen Shouse residence, 1206 Sumner.

Benton Harbor police said Tommy Jones, of 1110 McIntosh, reported a CB antenna valued at $35 was stolen from his auto while the car was parked in front of 417 Vineyard.

City police also said James Townsend reported $163 cash was stolen from his room at the Colfax Inn, 163 Colfax avenue.

Man's ID Is Still Unknown

HARTFORD — Van Buren county authorities are still attempting to determine the identity of a suspected murder victim whose body was found floating in the Paw Paw river Sunday morning three miles northwest of here.

Sheriff Richard Stump said fingerprints and dental records are being checked in an effort to determine the man's identity.

An autopsy showed the man apparently had been hit in the face and forehead with a sharp instrument, according to Stump. The exact cause of death has not officially been determined, but "foul play is suspected," Stump said.

The body, clothed only in shoes and socks, is believed to be that of a man between the ages of 45 and 60. Stump said the body was so badly decomposed authorities are not sure of its race, but believe it was that of a white man. It is believed the body had been in the water from two to 10 days.

Sheriff Stump said they have received no calls concerning any missing person of that age group.

The body has been cremated and there will be memorial services at a later date in Crystal Springs cemetery.

Welfare Job Plan Hit By AFL-CIO

workers will be available at the minimum wage. In its description of possible employment for the welfare workforce, the Department of Labor lists many jobs now being performed by regular workers at the prevailing wage.

The AFL-CIO statement also said, "The benefit level proposed by the administration ($4,200 for a family of four) is inadequate."

"The proposal should call for a timetable for raising the federal payments to the poverty level," now about $5,000, through federal benefits or required state supplements. The federation also wants assurances that no welfare workers will be referred "to an employer involved in a labor dispute," adding, "welfare recipients must not be forced into strikebreaking."

In one critical area of the Carter plan, the promise of fiscal relief to states, counties and cities, the federation said, "The administration's claim that its program would provide $2.1 billion in fiscal relief is open to challenge," because "many states would be forced 'to fill in

The AFL-CIO leaders also urged the food stamp program be continued. The Carter plan would fold it into the proposed basic welfare benefit levels.

"The working poor should not be forced to rely on welfare payments," said the council, also urging an improvement in the earned income tax credit that Carter would extend to the working poor.

Prison To Get Smoke Devices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Smoke detectors will be ordered for all federal prisons and sprinkler systems for most of them following a fire which killed five inmates, according to Federal Bureau of Prisons officials.

The fire, the worst in federal prison history, broke out July 7 at the facility in Danbury, Conn. In addition to the five inmate deaths, there were 80 inmates, two guards and four firefighters injured in the blaze.

How's Your Hearing?

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

Send for this non-operating model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any significant benefit from any hearing aid, this non-working model will show you how tiny hearing help can be, and it's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 8814, Beltone Electronics Corp., 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, Illinois 60646. ADV.

TRAPPED: State police officer and passers-by try to free Mrs. Wayne Vanscoyk, 23, and her brother, Michael Hegers, 16, from wreckage of their car which slammed into tree in Berrien township last night about 8. Both are from Indian Lake road, Dowagiac and both were listed in critical condition this morning at Pawating hospital in Niles. Accident happened less than mile from Vanscoyk home, state police from Niles said. Couple was on their way to visit Mrs. Vanscoyk's husband Wayne who is a patient at Berrien General hospital in Berrien Center when car hit tree. Police said Mrs. Vanscoyk and her brother were trapped for over an hour in vehicle before wreckage was discovered by passer-by. (Dick Cooper photo)

New River Valley School Cost Now $3,715,000

THREE OAKS — Architects last night told the River Valley school board here that construction of a new middle school and improvements to three elementary schools would cost an estimated $3,715,000. The school board authorized Dr. Charles Williams, school superintendent, to seek the earliest practical date to set a special election or a bond vote. A November date was discussed.

The action came after a special "blue ribbon" citizens committee last week recommended that a third vote be held on a bond issue for the new middle school and the remodeling. Twice before River Valley school voters have rejected bond proposals for a new middle school. Most recently, voters defeated a $3.55 million proposal by a nearly 2 to 1 margin a year ago.

Last night, Guido Binda of Binda Associates, a Battle Creek architectural firm, presented plans and estimated costs of the new construction and remodeling. His plans called for a 69,000 square-foot middle school to be built at a cost of $2,800,000. Remodeling and enlargement of the elementary schools at New Troy, Chikaming and Three Oaks would total $795,000. In a breakdown, work at New Troy would total $390,000; at Chikaming, $165,000; and at Three Oaks, $240,000. No site for the new school has been established.

The new middle school would replace two schools located in New Troy and Three Oaks. Both are more than 50 years old. Binda told the board that the remodeling and new construction, including site development, roads and equipment, would amount to about $3,595,000. The additional $120,000 would result from the bond vote timing. If the election were held in November, he said, it would be too late to add necessary millage on the 1977 tax rolls. However, the first interest payment on the bonds would be due in November, 1978, thus increasing the issue to the $3,715,000 figure. Millage requirements to pay off the bond if approved have not yet been discussed or established, according to the board.

In other action, the board approved advertising for bids on repairing the roof at River Valley high school. The board approved the sale of a house built by River Valley high school building trades students to Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Morrison. The house in Gabien was sold for $35,000. The house was built by the students during the past school year.

Bridgman Citizens Geared For Battle Over Sand Mining

BY JOHN DYE

South Berrien Bureau

BRIDGMAN — Critics of sand mining in this community have a temporary slate of officers and a name, but are still pondering over what direction the group will take.

"Hope for the Dunes" was the committee name adopted, but some 180 people at the 2½-hour meeting put off until Sept. 8 a specific course of action to be taken against sand mining.

Meanwhile, the target of much of the group's criticism, Martin Marietta Aggregates, launched a counter offensive of its own yesterday afternoon when told it could not make a formal presentation at the session held at the Bridgman American Legion post.

In a tour for the press, the sand mining firm outlined steps it said it was taking in order to comply with local regulations and to be a "good neighbor" in the city.

One of the first questions Hopes for the Dunes will have to deal with in a planned Sept. 8 meeting is one raised last night by Bridgman resident William Boyd. Boyd asked if the group was opposed to any mining operations in the city, or if it wanted stricter mining regulations.

The Sept. 8 meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the Bridgman city hall, unless otherwise announced, according to Richard Walsh, named temporary president of committee last night.

At that time, the group hopes to come up with a set of proposed goals and a set of guidelines for the committee.

In the meantime, Walsh said the group will work for a large turnout at the Tuesday, Sept. 6 meeting of the Bridgman city commission.

Walsh said the commission deserves public support in a controversy with Martin Marietta over expanded mining at the firm's south Bridgman site. The city has threatened legal action to halt the firm from mining an additional 27.5 acres of land on a 267-acre site off Red Arrow highway.

Bridgman Mayor Ronald Galesko said that an announcement on the pending legal action would be made soon.

Concern was voiced during the meeting over the fate of "Half-mile hill, or Mt. Edward," a large dune from the top of which is provided view of the Lake Michigan shoreline. Members of the group said at least part of the dune was included in the firm's south Bridgman site and voiced fears it might be destroyed.

Gary Barnes, who acted as moderator and was later elected vice president of the group, said he personally was "pro dunes and not anti mining." He said he was interested in preserving "a unique piece of real estate in the city."

Walsh and Roger Conners, executive director of the West Michigan Environmental Action Council, outlined several alternatives for the group.

Walsh told those at the meeting to write their state and federal representatives and urged stricter controls over mining. Conners suggested a letter writing campaign to the state Department of Natural Resources.

The DNR will have to decide around Oct. 1 whether to approve Martin Marietta's request to obtain provisional state approval to mine a total of 110 acres of land at the 267-acre site, and Conners urged the group to ask that operations be limited to land presently being mined.

Other suggestions from the audience included a referendum to bring sand mining to a halt in the city and an attempt to have the area declared a national wildlife refuge.

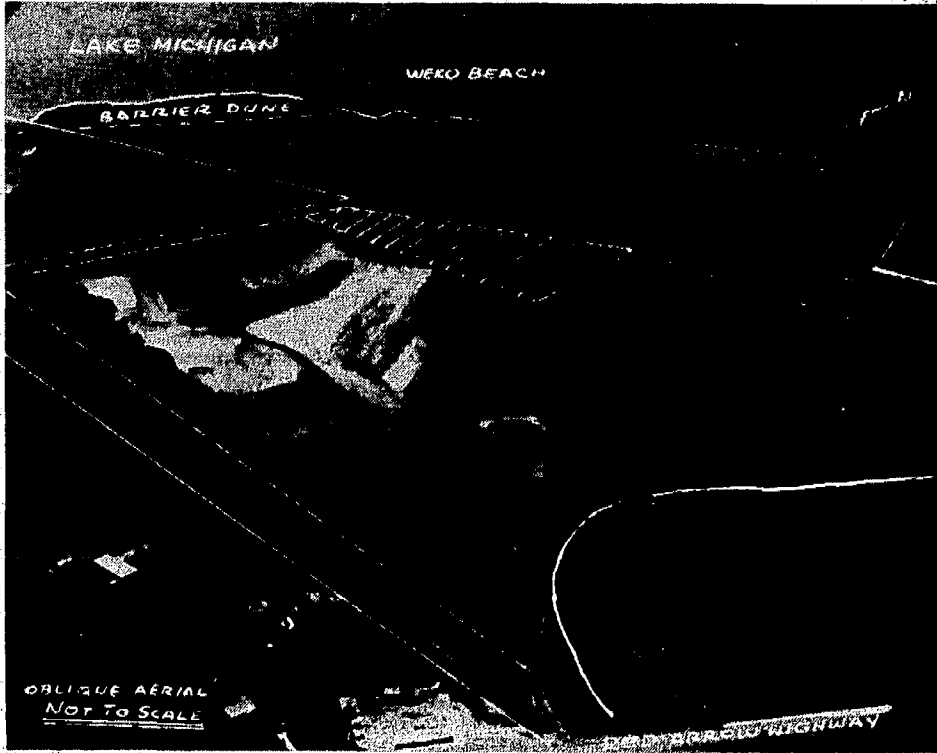

In addition to Conners and Walsh, making formal presentations last night were Clete Brummel, a Lake Michigan college instructor who discussed the ecology of the sand dunes, and Cherrill Siczek, who presented a history of sand mining in the city.

In addition to Walsh, other temporary officers are Mrs. Siczek, secretary, and Paul Kirincic, treasurer.

William Harwood, a public relations officer for Martin Marietta, complained during the meeting that there were no "good words" about the firm. He invited those in attendance to tour the firm's operations and see efforts to reclaim land already mined.

In a tour of both its north and south Bridgman mining operations earlier in the day, Martin Marietta officials defended the firm and discussed future plans.

John Knox, executive vice president and chief operating officer for Martin Marietta's Industrial Sand division, said the firm has begun to mine the 27.5 acres now a bone of contention with the city. The firm had earlier said it felt it was given permission in August of 1976 to mine all 110 acres in wants to at the south Bridgman site, in stages.

According to stipulations set down in the permit application, barrier dunes, those along the Lake Michigan shoreline, and about one-quarter mile in length, will not be mined at the south site and have not been mined at the north site, Knox said. In addition, a barrier on the east side of the south property, about 300 feet in width, and about 200 feet in width on the north and south sides has been established.

Of the entire 267-acre site, Knox stressed that only 110 acres would be mined.

City ordinances require efforts to reclaim land already mined to be done within two years, and Martin Marietta has begun some of those efforts prior to the two-year deadline, Knox said.

The firm is in full compliance with city, state and federal regulations concerning sand mining, reclamation and protection of barrier dunes, Knox said.

Turning to other points, Knox said a final decision on whether to build a proposed $7 million at the Bridgman south site has not been made, and any decision on the matter might be effected by attempts to block further mining there.

If it is built, the plant construction would begin in 1978, with completion by 1980 and sand processing to begin between 1980 and 1981.

Of its seven sand mining operations, only Bridgman produces "lake sand" for use in industrial foundry work, work. All others produce silica sand, Knox said.

He said that in an attempt to the south plant. Knox made the following points:

— The firm's annual payroll at its Bridgman operations is about $340,000 annually.

— Annual Martin Marietta supply purchases from Berrien county firms total $240,000, and $600,000 in the state of Michigan.

— Trucking services (hauling sand) and utility payments in the state by the firm total an estimated $1.5 million annually.

— The north Bridgman plant has been in operation since 1965.

— Martin Marietta gave the city land that is now the Wego beach park.

— The firm is mining, or has mined about 150 acres of land at the north plant.

— The firm currently employs 25 people in Bridgman.

Autographed Gifts To Sell At Democrat Picnic

COVERT — The Van Buren county Democratic committee will sponsor its third annual "Salute to Labor" picnic Monday at the Van Buren United Civic Center on 34th street here.

The picnic will run from 1 to 7 p.m., and will feature family fun, according to Peggy Phillips of Bangor, picnic chairman. She said there will be food, music, dancing, games and a "white donkey" flea market.

Well known Democrats from throughout the country have sent items to be sold at the flea market. Among the items for sale, according to Mrs. Phillips, are a collection of inaugural speeches autographed by Vice President Walter Mondale; an autographed golf ball from George Meany; and coasters from Chicago Mayor Michael Bilandic. Other items have also been received from Douglas Fraser, George McGovern, Adlai Stevenson III, Ted Kennedy, Ella Grasso, Edmund Muskie and Hubert Humphrey, she said.

Local citizens are also being asked to bring items for the flea market sale.

The event is open to the public. A donation of $5, which covers the cost of dinner and beverages, is payable at the door. Children will be admitted for $2.50.

Why Did Elevator Stop?

DETROIT (AP) — City safety inspectors were trying to determine today whether an elevator stopped by itself or whether a passenger halted it in an incident that saw a New Jersey sightseer plunge 40 floors down the shaft to his death. James Cunningham, 20, of Bound Brook, apparently tried to climb down from an elevator car that stopped early Sunday between the 39th and 40th floors of the 72-floor Detroit Plaza Hotel. It appeared he stepped to the 39th floor, lost his balance and fell through the opening between the bottom of the elevator and the corridor floor, investigators said. Samuel Chugur, chief elevator safety engineer for the City of Detroit, said Monday, "We have not found anything in the elevator machinery that indicates a malfunction."

Ground-Breaking Thursday For Hartford Sewage Plant

HARTFORD — A ground breaking ceremony for Hartford's new sewage treatment plant construction will be held Thursday at 3 p.m. on Pinery road where the plant is to be located. The plant is part of a $2.45 million sanitary improvement project which also includes an interceptor line. Pearson Construction Co. of Benton Harbor has the contract for the sewer plant which will cost $1,568,393. Hartford received a $1.7 million grant last month from the federal Environmental Protection Agency to help pay for construction. The ground breaking ceremony was announced by Wightman and Associates, Inc., St. Joseph, the city's sewer project engineers.

TY COBB
Record Stealer

Mind's Eye Misses 893rd Theft

Lou Steals Cobb's Record

SAN DIEGO (AP) — At a moment when history is made, the mind's eye often snaps a picture that will last forever when all the pressure had been lifted, when Lou Brock slid into the record books with the 893rd stolen base of his career, his mental camera had no film.

"There really weren't any other thoughts going through my mind at that moment," said the St. Louis Cardinals star Monday night. "I just looked down to dust myself off, then I looked up and everybody was grabbing my hand."

That was because Brock had just become the top base-stealer in major league baseball history, replacing Ty Cobb's standard with his own.

But Brock's main concern at that moment, after a flying lunge into second base broke the mark in the seventh inning of the Cardinals' 4-3 loss to the Padres, was that he had spiked San Diego shortstop Bill Almon. "I was relieved when I saw he wasn't hurt," he said.

And he was relieved that the mark finally had fallen. But after play was stopped and Brock was presented the base by San Diego player representa-tative Randy Jones, he made sure to add this reaction: "I think it should not be remembered as an evening when Lou Brock stole a base to set a record," he told the crowd of 9,636, "but as an evening in which the record of a tremendous ballplayer was surpassed."

Cobb had established the record, one of baseball's most durable, from 1905-1928. Brock started his record run in 1962.

"I really began thinking about stealing a lot of bases in 1964," said Brock, "and then it took me two or three more years to really know what I was doing."

Now, though, the prospect of 1,000 stolen bases seems possible. Brock replied, "I'm not thinking in terms of 1,000. Every stolen base over the years has been a challenge of the moment and not a number."

"You have to learn to play in pain, you have to want to steal, you have to be daring, and you have to get out there and challenge people."

Brock equaled the 46-year old mark in the first inning, then broke it in the seventh with his 893rd career theft.

In the first inning, he walked, then stole second on the first pitch. In the seventh, he grounded into a fielder's choice and again stole on the first pitch.

Both thefts came against Padre pitcher Dave Freisleben and both times the throw of catcher Dave Roberts was too wide for the San Diego infielder to make the payout.

Now that the stolen base record is his, Brock wants the Cardinals to steal up on the Philadelphia Phillies in the National League East race.

"It seems that every major record I've been involved in, the club has been losing," said the Cardinals' left fielder. "Now that I'm through with this one, maybe we can start winning again."

The Cardinals are in fourth place, nine games behind Philadelphia, after suffering their fifth straight defeat.

"There hasn't been a lot of pressure on me the last few weeks, no more than there has been all year," Brock said.

Then in the eighth, Mike Ivie blasted a two-run homer to power the Padres to a come-from-behind victory.

In other NL games Monday, Philadelphia edged Atlanta 3-2 in 14 innings. Los Angeles defeated Chicago 4-1 and Montreal defeated Cincinnati 7-2.

Dave Johnson walked with the bases loaded to force in the winning run in the 14th inning as Philadelphia nipped Atlanta. Johnson was the fourth batter walked by Braves reliever Steve Hargan in the inning.

The victory snapped a five game Philadelphia losing streak and boosted the Phillies' NL East lead to four games over idle Pittsburgh.

A former teammate — Tony Perez — turned against Cincinnati by smothering a two-run homer and an RBI single to spark Montreal over the Reds. Perez' single highlighted the Expos' four-run fifth inning.

Gary Carter also homered and doubled for Montreal, while Johnny Bench slammed his 28th home run of the season in the second for Cincinnati.

Chambliss' Blast Helps Yankees Increase Lead

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horne runs are old hat to Jim Rice. Chris Chambliss, and now Duane Kuiper.

While Rice slammed three wasted homers in the Boston Red Sox 6-7 loss to the Oakland A's and Chambliss — whose dramatic ninth-inning homer gave the New York Yankees the 1977 American League pennant — slugged a pinch three-run shot to again turn back the Kansas City Royals 5-1, Kuiper got into the act with the very first home run of his three-year big league career.

"This should put to rest forever the question of whether the ball is juiced up this year," quipped the Cleveland second baseman after his blast triggered a three-homer first inning that started the Indians to a 9-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

In the only other AL games, the Baltimore Orioles downed the California Angels 6-1 and the Minnesota Twins won a doubleheader from the Toronto Blue Jays 7-6 in 10 innings and 6-5.

Kuiper's maiden homer helped the Indians turn the tables on the slugging White Sox. Andre Thornton and Bruce Bochte also connected in the first inning and Thornton added another homer in the seventh as Cleveland breezed behind Rick Waite's six-hit pitching.

Kuiper, who had failed to hit the ball out of the park in 1,361 previous trips to the plate — the longest current string of homerless at-bats in the majors — was greeted by the entire Cleveland bench as he crossed home plate.

"It was exciting, believe me," he said. "At first, I didn't think it was going out, but I never think they're going to go out."

The Indians jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the first inning against Steve Stone, 13-10, on homers by Kuiper, Andre Thornton and Bruce Bochte. Thornton's homer was an inside-the-park shot. He also homered over the left field fence in the seventh inning.

Thornton's second homer of the game was his 20th of the season and came off Silvio Martinez. The Indians had not hit four home runs in a game since Aug. 3, 1974, at Milwaukee.

Waite, 8-5, gave up an infield single in the second inning to Eric Soderholm for the first Chicago hit. Soderholm's 22nd homer in the fifth accounted for Chicago's first run, and the White Sox' third baseman went 4-for-4 in the game.

Waite's eight strikeouts in the regionally televised game matched his career high.

Rice's three homers weren't enough as Oakland's Mitchell Page hit a three-run homer in the fifth inning and a tie-breaking solo shot off Boston relief ace Bill Campbell in the ninth.

"The homers don't mean much when you lose," said Rice, who had been homerless since Aug. 12.

Chambliss' three-run shot off reliever Doug Bird with two out in the eighth nullified Kansas City homers by George Brett and Al Cowens off Catfish Hunter. It gave the Yankees to their 18th triumph in 22 games and a three-game edge over runner-up Boston in the AL East.

Meanwhile, the Royals' lead was sliced to 2½ games over Minnesota in the West.

Pat Kelly's grand slam home run in the seventh inning off Nolan Ryan, who surpassed 300 strikeouts for the fifth time in six seasons, paced Baltimore's victory behind Rudy May's four-hit pitching. Ryan struck out 11 in his seven-inning stint, increasing his total to 306.

Lyman Bostock's sixth-inning sacrifice fly scored Larry Hise with the winning run in the nightcap and Mike Cubbage homered as Minnesota relief ace Tom Johnson recorded his 15th victory. Hise accounted for six runs in the opener and Ron Schueler pitched 4 2/3 innings of scoreless relief. Hise, who tripled, doubled and singled twice, knocked in three runs and scored three, including the winner on Bob Gorinski's sacrifice fly in the 10th inning. Hise also enjoyed a productive second game with three hits, scoring twice and driving in his 104th run of the season.

John, LA Clip Cubs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Reggie Smith slugged a two-run homer and Tommy John scattered eight hits for his 16th victory as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-1 Monday night to capture their fourth straight victory.

Bill Russell and Ron Cey singled home first-inning runs off loser Mike Krukow, 6-11. The Dodgers then managed only two more hits until Smith followed a two-out single by Russell in the seventh inning with his 28th home run of the season.

John, who has now won 10 of his last 11 decisions, blanked the Cubs on five hits until the eighth inning when Jose Cardenal singled home Ivan DeJesus. Bill Buckner followed with another base hit and reliever Lance Rautzhan came in to strike out Bobby Murcer and get Gene Clines to ground out to end the inning.

John matched his career high in victories, walking two while striking out one.

The victory enabled Los Angeles to improve its lead over Cincinnati in the National League West to 8½ games.

BASEBALL

NEW YORK — The National League named Cincinnati Reds shortstop Dave Concepcion its Player of the Week for his .423 batting performance. Concepcion was 11-for-26 with 10 RBI, two game-winning hits and a perfect 4-for-4 day against the Mets last week.

Rico Carty of the Cleveland Indians, who belted three home runs and drove in 13 runs last week, was named American League Player of the Week. Carty belted a .400 clip and had a slugging percentage of .500.

YACHTING

NEWPORT, R.I. — Australia, skippered by Noel Robins, overcame a half-minute deficit at the start and soundly defeated Sweden's Sverige in the America's Cup final challenger series. The victory, by a margin of 50 seconds, gave Australia a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven series and virtually clinched Alan Bond's second consecutive try at wresting the cup away from the United States. Bonds was owner of the unsuccessful 1974 challenger, Southern Cross.

TENNIS

BROOKLINE, Mass. — Third-seeded Manuel Orantes defeated Jaime Filio, Chile 6-3, 6-0, 6-1 in the semifinals of the $125,000 U.S. Pro Tennis Championships. In the first doubles semifinal, top-seeded Brian Gottfried and Bob Hewitt of South Africa teamed for a straight-set victory over unseeded Australians Mark Edmondson and John Marks.

HARRISON, N.Y. — Guillermo Vilas won his sixth straight tournament, crushing the Argentine 6-2, 6-0 in the final of the $25,000 Tennis Week Open round-robin tournament at the Westchester Country Club. The one-sided victory raised Vilas' winning streak on clay surfaces to 39. John McEnroe, the 16-year-old from Douglaston, N.Y., took third place with a 3-6, 6-2, 6-0 victory over Ricardo Cano of Argentina.

BOWLING

CRANSTON, R.I. — Bill Spigner of Hamden, Conn., captured his first Professional Bowlers Association title with a 361-pin victory over Mark Roth in the $60,000 New England Open. The victory brought him $6,000 and boosted his earnings to $37,161, eighth on the PBA money list.

Dennis Lane of Kingsport, Tenn., collected $3,000 for his 3,914-pinfall third-place finish. Steve Nelf of Sarasota, Fla., won $2,500 for finishing fourth with 3,816, and Marshall Holman of Medford, Ore., was fifth with 3,742, picking up $2,000.

Rookie Quarterback Puts Fire In Giants' Offense

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Ask tight end Bob Tucker of the Giants about rookie Joe Pisarcik and his eyes light up.

"He has the kind of personality you want from your quarterback," said Tucker after Pisarcik came off the bench and led the Giants to a 24-21 preseason victory over the Buffalo Bills Monday night. "Very few quarterbacks generate that authority. The only other one I've played with was Fran Tarkenton."

That's the last company in which to place a National Football League rookie, but Pisarcik earned it by moving what had been a dormant Giants offense to three touchdowns and Joe Danelo's 30-yard, game-winning overtime field goal.

Pisarcik, who completed 15 of 21 attempts for 178 yards, came off the bench when starter Jerry Gosteyn twisted his knee in the first quarter. He knew he was playing for his job with the Giants.

"Before this game, I looked like the guy who was out of the picture," Pisarcik said. "Jerry was here last year. Steve Ramsey's been in the league for eight years. Randy Dean was a high draft choice. Now I'm just a free agent."

But Pisarcik wasn't going without a fight. As soon as he came on the field, the Giant offense showed some life for the first time all season.

In the other NFL exhibition Monday night, the Houston Oilers bested the San Francisco 49ers, 17-3.

The Bills had looked sharp in the first half, getting a pair of TD passes from Joe Ferguson and 96 yards on 15 carries from O.J. Simpson. But Coach Jim Ringo wasn't happy with his club's over-all performance.

"We made too many mistakes to win," he said. "I don't like that. On defense, we were gambling too much and not executing."

Dan Pastorini fired a 57-yard touchdown pass to Jimmy Giles and Karl Douglas sneaked one yard for another touchdown as Houston snapped a nine-game exhibition losing streak with its victory over San Francisco.

The 49ers took a 3-0 lead in the first quarter on a 30-yard field goal by Tom Wilton.

The Oilers, who had two first-half touchdowns nullified by penalties including a 91-yard pass from Pastorini to Ken Burroughs, are 1-3 in preseason.

The 49ers fell to 1-3.

Aside from the score, the effect of the outcome may be known by 4 p.m. EDT, this afternoon, which is the deadline set for NFL rosters to be trimmed to 52 players.

Bill McCadden and guard Wes Phillips. The New York Jets placed three players on waivers — defensive tackle Danny Johnson, cornerback Rolien Smith and linebacker Ed Thompson — while LINEBACKER Don Coleman was placed on the injured reserve list.

The Miami Dolphins released four players including veteran wide receiver Barry Smith, but needed to drop more players to squeeze under the roster ceiling. The others cut were defensive back Ted Bachman, offensive tackle Bill Windauer and running back Keith Ferguson.

The Tampa Bay Buccaneers severed five players including defensive back Roscoe Word as they reached the limit. The other victims were linebacker Larry Ball, defensive end Tim Guy, tight end Gary Butler and running back Robert Morgan.

Meanwhile, the Chicago Bears asked waivers on veteran tight end Doug Kingsriter and four rookies: defensive back Ron Bush, running back Rod Wellington, defensive back Terry Irvin and wide receiver Gerald Butler.

The Oakland Raiders traded linebacker Rick Bonness to the Buccaneers for an undisclosed future draft choice.

The Minnesota Vikings cut four players, the San Diego Chargers dropped five including veteran kicker Ray Wersching.

Woosnam Says U.S. Has Made Soccer Greater

NEW YORK (AP) — In typical American fashion, we have taken the international sport of football, changed its name to soccer and, according to a man familiar with both varieties, made it better.

Phil Woosnam, a great player in the English Soccer League and now commissioner of the North American Soccer League, says American experimentation and knowledge has made a great game even greater.

"The rest of the world will come over to our way of doing things," says Woosnam, a Welshman by birth but an American by spirit and philosophy. "It's time to take the blinkers off. Tradition is a great thing. But tradition should be in a museum."

Like Henry Ford, Woosnam may have a better idea. Already, he has overseen the NASL's growth from a league of ethnic rooters and weekend players to one that has drawn a North American record crowd of 77,619 in New Jersey two weeks ago.

And just to prove that the sport isn't successful only in the trendy New York metropolitan area, there is soccer fever in midland Minnesota, where attendance averaged 32,771 — second to the Cosmos — and in the Pacific Northwest, where a sellout crowd of 35,548 turned out in Portland, Ore. to watch the Cosmos beat Seattle 2-1 Sunday in the NASL championship game. (Woosnam says he expects Seattle, Portland and

Part of the reason why international football — soccer — finally is gaining a foothold in this country, where pigskin football has been king, is that the NASL tried some innovations in the sport.

The shootout, designed to satisfy America's hunger for more offense and a clear-cut winner, is the most novel change in the NASL's brand of soccer. The shootout is a game of one-on-one between shooter and goalie that tips the game to one team or the other.

wants to go for the 0-0 game. That's a bad approach."

The NASL also awards bonus points for goals up to a maximum of three, providing incentives to attack even when a team is leading 1-0 or 2-0.

Another wrinkle to open up the game offensively, a necessary approach in the NASL's early years since the American public appreciated goals more than the game's technical nuances, is changing the offside area to open up the midfield for more offensive creativity.

"Everything we've done we've done to improve the game without tampering with its fundamental greatness," Woosnam said. "The rest of the world would benefit by following us."

Lonely, Sad Vilas Best-Selling Poet

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Guillermo Vilas is a tennis champion with the soul and the pen of a poet.

"I write poetry when I am lonely and when I am sad — and that is almost all the time," the swarthy, long-haired Argentine said, grabbing a quick lunch on the veranda of the Westchester Country Club.

"I don't write much concerning tennis. I just write my own feelings, my moods, my impressions."

What is the predominant theme?

"Death," Guillermo replies with a flicker of his green, probing eyes.

"I think a lot of death. Happy thoughts are not realistic thoughts. If you think deeply, you think sad things. I try to think deeply, so my thoughts are mostly very sad."

There is nothing sad about Vilas' tennis career. He currently is one of the hottest items on the pro tour, winner of his last six tournaments and 39 consecutive matches on his favorite surface, clay.

His latest triumph was a 6-2, 6-0 rout over Ilie Nastase in an eight-man tennis week tournament Monday night at Westchester.

He stands to earn close to $500,000 this year, already having virtually clinched the $100,000 first prize in the Grand Prix competition. He is seeded third behind Bjorn Borg and Jimmy Connors in the U.S. Open, starting Wednesday.

Vilas, 25, is cut from a different bolt of cloth than most of his globe-girdling contemporaries. He studiously avoids the tinsel and fanfare of the pro tour. He is a loner — a thinker, a reader, a writer.

A volume of his poems, written in Spanish, is on the best seller lists in Argentina. Two editions already have been sold out. There is a clamor for more.

Thousands of American admirers have written, asking where copies or translations can be bought.

"There are no translations," Vilas says. "Publishers have talked about it. But the poems would not be the same in English. The feeling would be lost."

Many of Vilas' poems are based on his childhood in Mar del Plata, a resort community of 15,000.

"One of my favorites is about a little boy," he said. "The father, wanting some peace, tells his son, 'Go dig a hole in the sand and put the ocean in it.' The little boy digs the hole. Always the ocean comes in and washes away the hole — and the boy's dreams."

Although he won the Grand Prix in 1974 and 1975, Guillermo now is playing the best tennis of his career. Many predict he will win the U.S. Open, adding it to the French Open title, and becoming the best in the world.

Normally undemonstrative and very composed, Vilas sometimes shows an artist's sensitivity about movement in the gallery.

"Only in the United States," he says. "The people are so different than in Europe. They move about, shake hands, get up for a drink while the point is in play. Very distracting." A sad note, and maybe worth a poem.

HE'S HOT! Third-seeded Manuel Orantes of Spain cools off with bucket of water during the semifinals of the Pro Tennis Championships being held Monday at the Longwood Cricket Club in Brookline, Mass. Orantes whipped Jaime Fillol of Chile 6-3, 6-0, 6-1 as temperatures soared to 95 on the courts. (AP Wirephoto)

Vilas, Wade Top Open Contenders

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — If you're thinking about a final pitting Bjorn Borg against Jimmy Connors or Chris Evert against Martina Navratilova in the 1977 U.S. Open tennis tournament, you might find Guillermo Vilas and Virginia Wade upsetting your plans.

Vilas, the 25-year-old Argentinian, is seeded fourth for the final Open to be played at the West Side Tennis Club. This year, Vilas has won the French Open and six U.S. tournaments; in the process, he has won 39 consecutive matches on his favorite surface — clay.

"The 39 in a row is no pressure for me," said Vilas. "I prefer to keep winning, of course, and I hope to continue doing so in the U.S. Open."

He may very well keep winning. The Open, which opens Wednesday, is played on a Har-Tru surface, which plays like a clay surface.

However, Vilas still faces a tough road. There's always Borg, the tournament's No. 1 seed and this year's Wimbledon champion — not to mention a hurting but determined Connors, the defending champion and No. 2 seed.

Borg snatched the No. 1 spot in the men's tennis rankings last week from Connors, who had held it the past 3½ years. He will meet Trey Waltke in his first-round match. Connors, who announced Monday that a back injury will not prevent him from competing, will meet one of the tournament qualifiers in his first-round match at a date to be set.

Mrs. Wade, seeded third, has some impressive statistics of her own. She scored a 6-2, 4-6, 6-1 victory over Miss Evert in this year's Wimbledon semifinal en route to the title. Last week, in a World Team Tennis championship match, she blitzed Miss Evert, 6-0.

Mrs. Wade's first-round foe here is Renee Richards. Miss Richards, the 42-year-old transsexual, ended a year-long battle against the United States Tennis Association by obtaining a court order which will allow her to compete in the Open.

New Look And Spirit At Illinois

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — There are few new faces among Illinois' starters this year but expect a new look with a new spirit.

Despite perhaps the most highly touted group of freshmen since the batch that included Dick Butkus in 1961, new coach Gary Moeller says 1977 is not to be a rebuilding year and he will go with his best players in the opener Sept. 10 against Michigan.

No freshman has yet to crack the starting lineup, although some, like Peoria prep standout John Venegoni at safety, have moved into the No. 1 backup spots.

Moeller, instead, is relying on a small corps of returning starters at the skilled backfield and receiver positions and returning lettermen to key a new, option-oriented offense and a completely revamped 5-2 defense.

"There's no way I can start a program by throwing out the seniors and playing the freshmen because I won't get the leadership I want," Moeller says. "Otherwise, the freshmen will be following people on the bench and then you'll have a jumbled-up mess."

Although the starting faces may be the same, however, some will be slimmer and all the returnees should be quicker, faster and better-conditioned.

Moeller, only 35, starts at Illinois after playing for Woody Hayes at Ohio State and coaching at Michigan for the past eight years. There, he was the architect of the always respected and oft-brilliant Wolverine defense under Bo Schembechler as well as chief recruiter.

He is a firm believer in speed, stamina and endurance and any player who can't run 1½ miles within an established time (9:45 for running backs; 10:45 for offensive linemen) isn't going to play.

"So many games are decided in the final quarter, and they're usually won by the team in the best physical condition," he says.

The "newest" old face in camp belongs to senior quarterback Kurt Steger, who has coupled flashes of passing brilliance in the past two years with a distressing inclination to lose the ball via fumble, errant pitchout or wayward pass.

Steger, who has an opportunity to set several career records this year, has taken 20 punts off his last year's playing weight of 225 and intends to get down to 200 before the season begins.

He says he's quicker, more alert and ready to give what Moeller wants from his quarterback: "Balanced running and throwing and knowing when and when not to attempt to make the big play."

Senior tailback James Coleman is back after a season as the Illini's best rusher which included a 152-yard game against then-ranked Missouri and Eric Rouse (20 catches for 325 yards last year) returns to his wide receiver position.

Charlie Weber, who was redshirted last year, leads the competition at fullback and Tom Schooley, who missed half of last season with a foot fracture, will start at wingback.

The offensive line is keyed by 240-pound senior guards Gary Jurczyk and Kevin Pancraz. Senior Rich Grimmer, who never lettered despite his 6-foot-8, 285-pound frame, is at one tackle with senior Dennis Ashlock at the other. Sophomore Mike Sherrod will start at tight end.

Moeller concedes that one of the biggest adjustments for the Illini will be switching from Bob Blackman's 4-4-3 defense to the 5-2.

Stanley Ralph, redshirted last year, has the strength and quickness for nose guard and will be flanked by tackles Jim Kogut and Bruce Thornton.

The linebacking corps will see the return of John Sullivan after knee surgery and Scott Scholz.

Rickie Mitchem, who calls defense "crazy, wild-eyed, controlled anger," has moved from linebacker to roving safety and found a coach who he says thinks like him.

"Moeller believes you get across the line, line 'em up, beat 'em up and just tackle them," Mitchem says. "Coach Blackman liked you to think a lot."

Besides instituting his own defensive and offensive styles, Moeller has begun to put his personal stamp on the team in other ways.

"Get them mentally tough and teach them how to win," is the way he puts it.

weeks in a motel.

"We call it family," Moeller says. "Once you live with another player you find out who will fight and who won't fight and we can put them to bed when we want and get them out of bed when we want."

Steger also points to a new intensity on the team.

"Coach Mo feels emotions and transfers it to the team," he says. "I respected Coach Blackman. He was an older man and a wiser man but not a coach."

"Talking to Coach Blackman was like talking to that wall. He never listened. He talked in that monotone voice. Boring. He never excited too many people, never got us up for a game."

Wings' Investors Threaten Suit

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings are being threatened with a lawsuit from suburban investors who want to stop the National Hockey League team from playing in a new riverfront arena planned in Detroit.

Suburban investors, who lost a bid to lure the team to Pontiac, made the threats two days before the Detroit City Council's expected approval of the team's transfer from Olympia Stadium on Detroit's west side to the $23.5 million riverfront arena.

City Council President Carl Levin said he did not expect the letter from the Opdyke Investment Co. in Pontiac to affect the council vote. He referred the letter to the city's attorneys for an opinion before the council takes its vote.

Opdyke's letter to city officials and Red Wings owner Bruce Norris said the team had a prior agreement with Opdyke to move to a new arena to be built near the Pontiac Silverdome, home of the Detroit Lions football team.

Opdyke said there were two letters of intent between it and the Red Wings. One expired in December and the Wings contended they never signed the second one. Lincoln Cavalieri, Olympia general manager, said, "They have no grounds whatever for a suit...anybody can sue you for $30. That is all it costs to sue."

Doctors Agree, Fidrych Should Recover

DETROIT (AP) — It's highly unlikely that Mark "The Bird" Fidrych's career is finished, say four doctors who predict he will recover from tendinitis.

The injury to his right shoulder has sidelined the Detroit Tigers' star pitcher for the remainder of the season. He flew home Monday to Northboro, Mass.

"You can't rule out that he'll never come back, but it's highly unlikely," said Dr. David Mitchell of Ford Hospital in Detroit.

Mitchell has examined Fidrych frequently since the Bird suffered the injury July 12 against the Toronto Blue Jays. Three other physicians also examined him and gave the same prognosis.

"You can't put a percentage on his chances of recovery," said Mitchell. "But with any young pitcher without a prior problem, the chances are better than not that he will come back."

Dr. Harvey O'Phelan of Minneapolis, who examined Fidrych about four weeks ago, said, "You can't say there's a 100 per cent chance he'll come back, but it would certainly be in the high 90s."

"It's just the kind of injury that will take some time to heal properly. There's likely a small tear in there — that's probably why the problem has lasted so long."

Tiger team physician Dr. Clarence Livingood said the doctors who have examined Fidrych do not believe the injury is critical. "We don't look on this as ominous to his career," Livingood said. But he admitted that "we all thought it would come along quicker."

Dr. Frank W. Jobe of Los Angeles also examined Fidrych and wrote Livingood that "he didn't consider that there was anything more wrong than tendinitis," said Livingood.

MSU Exemplary--Duke

CHICAGO (AP) — Michigan State University has been "exemplary in every respect" since it was slapped with a three-year probation for football recruiting and other violations, the head of the Big Ten says.

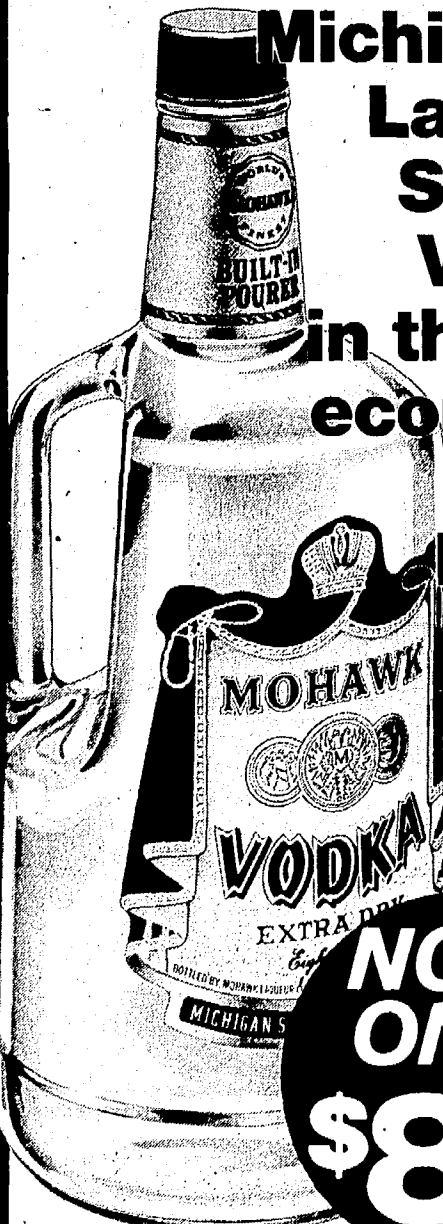

Commissioner Wayne Duke, speaking to Big Ten football writers Sunday night, said MSU has been under "continued surveillance" since being put on probation. But, he added: "In my opinion, the matter is closed."

MSU is in its second season of probation and has replaced its athletic director and head coach since the violations were revealed. The probation was set by the conference and the NCAA.

Big Lake Fishing 'Absolutely Great'

Chinook Top Mixed Catch

Waterfowl enthusiasts who will be hunting in steel shot zones this fall should start looking for shells.

The season is just a little over a month away, and so far, supplies of steel shot don't appear to be too large in southwestern Michigan.

B-J's Sports in St. Joseph has a limited inventory and is experiencing "some trouble" getting more. Gardner's in Benton Harbor was still without steel shot last week, but it was expecting its order "any time."

Manufacturers give assurance that steel shot will be available in time. They say supplies are in the pipeline and should be to dealers in plenty of time.

Sportsmen going after steel shot should also put a little extra money in their pockets. It costs $2 to $3 more than lead shot.

Most sports shops seem to be charging around $9 for a box of 25 shells, but one source heard of its selling for as low as $6 in Wisconsin. Another authority put the wholesale price at $5.70, but of course, that probably depends on the quantity ordered.

Steel shot will be required in 12-gauge guns only in the most heavily hunted Michigan waterfowl areas. They are the St. Clair River, Lake St. Clair, Detroit River and Lake Erie corridor; Saginaw Bay and the adjoining Shiawassee marshes; the Houghton Lake, Lake St. Helen and Missaukee county marsh area; the western Lake Michigan shore from north of Holland to Montague and the marshes inland from there, and the eastern tip of the Upper Peninsula.

The new regulation is part of a gradual phasing-in of a steel shot requirement in waterfowl hunting throughout the country. The regulation is aimed at stopping the loss of ducks and geese to lead poisoning.

A warning has also been issued concerning handloading steel shot. Much of the steel shot available for handloading is too hard and could score gun barrels. Also, the proper wading isn't available yet, and the data on powder loads for use with steel shot hasn't been entirely worked out.

A new navigational aid network covering the entire Great Lakes region is expected to be in operation by 1980.

The "Loran-C" station at Buadelle, Minn., and another station in Seneca, N.Y., will be coupled with an existing station in Dana, Ind., to provide coverage for the entire Great Lakes region.

The Loran-C system provides guidance information for vessels equipped with the appropriate receiving apparatus, utilizing radio waves signals. It is accurate to within one-quarter mile.

The all-weather, all-season system will ensure that vessels adhere to charted tracklines and reduce dependence on shoreline navigational aids, such as lights and radiobeacons.

The Loran-C system also has features which would allow expansion of its operation into an automatic vessel monitoring, control and weather reporting service.

There is "absolutely great fishing" on Lake Michigan when weather permits, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

Anglers from New Buffalo to Saugatuck are taking a mixed catch, with chinook salmon making up about 60 per cent of the catch, according to DNR checks. The kings are averaging 16 to 22 pounds, with some in the 30-pound class. Steelhead averaging eight to 10 pounds make up 20 to 25 per cent of the catch, followed by coho weighing six to nine pounds. Lake trout and a few brown trout have also been taken.

An example of the variety of the catch is seen in a limit taken last week off the St. Joseph pier by Jim Scott of Diamond Lake, the son-in-law of Del Jesswein of Benton Harbor. He used his father-in-law's pole to catch two chinook, a lake, a coho and a steelhead, all in a four-hour period while using a little cleo lure.

Trollers out on the lake have been having good luck with J plugs, large tadpoles and flutterspoons. Most of the best fishing has been in water ranging out to a depth of 60 feet.

Salmon and steelhead are also continuing to move up the St. Joseph River to the Berrien Springs dam, with fishing "fair," according to the DNR.

Meanwhile, perch fishing remains "great" along southwestern Michigan's shoreline, particularly at South Haven. Jumbos ranging up to 15 inches and two pounds have been taken.

On inland lakes, the bluegill fishery is improving, with catfishes and crickets the best baits. Some of the best waters have been Diamond, Juno and Stone Lakes in Cass county.

FROG TALK

A Cornell University biologist is reported to have determined that frogs from different states speak a different language. This was proved by the fact that female frogs responded only to the mating call of males from their own states.

Bobcat, Lynx Status Reviewed

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is undertaking a review of the status of the bobcat and the lynx.

The review will determine whether these species, or any populations thereof, should be proposed for listing as endangered or threatened, in accordance with the Endangered Species Act of 1973.

The bobcat originally occurred throughout the "lower" 48 states, as well as in southern Canada and northern Mexico.

In recent years it reportedly has declined because of habitat loss and excessive killing by man. There has been considerable concern that rapidly rising fur prices may have resulted in widespread depletion of bobcat populations by trappers.

The lynx, which still occupies much of Alaska and Canada, has been eliminated from most of its range in the northern part of the lower 48 states.

Persons with information that may assist in determining whether these species should be proposed for listing as endangered or threatened can write the Director, Fish and Wildlife Service, U.S. Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C. 20240; all comments should be in by November 14, 1977.

Hunter Safety Course Slated

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The Berrien Springs Parks and Recreation Department will offer a hunter safety course for ages 11 to 16 from 8:30 to 8:30 p.m. Sept. 7-8 at the high school here. Interested persons may register by calling the recreation office (471-2881). There is a class fee of $1. Students successfully completing the course will get a certificate required for obtaining a hunting license.

DNR Two-Deer Procedure Is Outlined

Deer hunters with a Michigan Sportsman's License who hope to take two deer this year under a new law are advised to contact the Department of Natural Resources for their second deer tag.

The new law authorizes the taking of two deer in a calendar year, one during the bow and arrow season and one during the firearm season.

But, since the law took immediate effect after being signed by Governor William G. Milliken on July 27, a minor problem was created because Sportsman's Licenses had already been printed — with only one validation tag for deer. To remedy the situation, the DNR is providing tags for the second deer to all DNR field offices and conservation officers.

The following rules governing issuance of a second deer validation tag for holders of a Sportsman's License will be in effect:

1) The deer tag issued with the 1977 sportsman's license may be used to validate a deer taken during either the October 1 - November 14 and December 1 - 31 bow and arrow season or the November 15 - 30 firearm season.

2) If a deer is taken during the October 1 - November 14 portion of the bow and arrow season or the November 15 - 30 firearm season the licensee, to obtain the second deer tag for the firearm season or the subsequent portion of the December 1 - 31 bow season, may:

— Bring the deer with validated tag attached, or, following disposal of the carcass, present the validated tag to a DNR district or field office, deer checking station, conservation officer or field wildlife biologist; or — Mail the validated tag to Wildlife Division, DNR, Box 30028, Lansing, Mich. 48908, with name and address and, if obliterated on the tag, the sportsman's license number.

3) When a deer with validated tag attached is presented to obtain a second tag, the issuing DNR official shall indicate in ink on the reverse side of both the sportsman's license and the validated tag the date of issuance of the second tag, his name and title, plus enter the sportsman's license number on the second tag issued.

4) When a validated tag only is presented or received for a second tag, the issuing DNR official shall retain the validated tag, and shall enter in ink on the second tag issued the number of the sportsman's license.

Bird Hunt Hours Will Stay Same

The shooting hours for early season migratory game bird hunting will remain as they have been for years — starting at one-half hour before sunrise and ending at sunset, with a few exceptions — the Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has announced.

These regulations relate to doves, pigeons, rails, gallinules, woodcock, snipe, lesser sandhill cranes in North and South Dakota, all migratory game birds in Alaska, and mourning doves in Hawaii. The same hours are being proposed for waterfowl; however, the regulations for those species have not yet been finalized.

Shooting times were raised as an issue by the organization Defenders of Wildlife in a court action last year. A detailed environmental assessment was conducted by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in compliance with the court ruling. Based on the assessment it was concluded that hunting during the half-hour before sunrise was not detrimental to migratory bird populations, including protected or endangered species.

Accordingly, States may now select and set shooting hours within these times for the 1977-78 early season.

You have more power over your electric bill than you think.

No matter what we do to help keep your electric bill in line, there's one thing we have no power over.

The amount of power you use. So we'd like to point out the most significant places where only you have the biggest opportunities to save.

Insulation

6 to 12 inches of insulation in your attic could save you real money each year. You'll save even more if you insulate your walls, heating ducts and hot water pipes.

Caulking, weatherstripping, storm windows, shades and drapes also help keep heat inside in winter, and outside in summer.

Thermostat Control

Lower your thermostat in winter. Each degree below 68°F can save three percent of the energy needed for heating. If you have air conditioning, a higher thermostat setting will also save energy in summer.

Hot Water Use

You can save up to 5% a year of the energy needed to heat water if you turn your water heater thermostat down to 120 degrees and take quick showers instead of baths.

Fix leaky hot water faucets promptly. And wash clothes in cold water, if you can. Washing and drying only full loads of clothes and dishes is more economical, too.

Appliance Efficiency

If you're in the market for appliances and equipment, look for the new energy saving features on refrigerators, freezers, and dishwashers. Choose an Energy Efficiency Ratio (EER) of 8 or higher on room air conditioners.

While there are a lot more ways to save electricity, these are the ones that will make the biggest impression on your bill.

Bainbridge Eyes Addition Of New Voting Precinct

Tentative plans for adding a voter precinct in Bainbridge township were discussed by the township board last night.

Township Clerk Beverly Koroch reported the township has 1,461 registered voters. She said state law requires that a second precinct be added after the first one reaches 1,400 registered voters.

She said no date has been set yet on when and how the present precinct will be divided. Residents of both precincts would vote in the township hall, she said.

In other areas, the board set their Oct. 3 meeting as the date for holding a public hearing on how to spend $12,227 in federal revenue sharing funds the township has received.

The board tabled action on how plumbing inspections in the future would be handled. At present, the state inspects plumbing work in the township. A proposal to permit a Benton township licensed plumbing inspector undertake the inspections in Bainbridge township was rejected by the board.

The cost, placed at $1,527 per year, was based on the total number of building permits issued in the township.

Trustee Robert Spies recommended the township board seek someone in the township to consider being the township plumbing inspector.

In another area, the need for finding an electrical inspector by Nov. 11 and deciding which of two electrical codes to use in the township, state or national, was discussed by the board.

The board voted to ask recently appointed building inspector Harry Schuenneman to consider undertaking the duties in addition to building inspections.

Carlyle Eber, chairman of the township's planning commission, announced the commission will meet Monday, Sept. 26, instead of Sept. 19. The commission usually meets on the third Monday of each month.

Township officials said they are continuing their efforts to get a state attorney general's ruling on whether school buildings are subject to township zoning and building codes and other ordinances.

The inquiry is being made in connection with a school building erected in the township by Grace Christian Association near M-140 and Napier avenue.

The school now has classrooms for grades K-8 and has proposed adding high school classes.

Township officials have questioned whether the school's septic system could handle the added student population.

Township officials have said there may also be some drainage problems at the school site.

SEWER QUESTIONS FIELDLED: Barger Engineering representatives and Lincoln township board listen to questions and comments from audience of some 450 township residents who attended public sewer hearing at Lakeshore high school auditorium last night.

Lincoln's Sewer Grant Outlook 'Good'

BY AL AREND
Staff Writer

Lincoln township "stands a very good chance" of getting a federal grant that would pay about half of the $9.4 million cost of a proposed sewer system, a federal official said at a public hearing on the sewer project last night.

John Piccininni of the Environmental Protection Agency's Chicago regional office said he was impressed with last night's turnout and the lack of "any serious negative comment" concerning the sewer project.

Some 450 citizens attended the meeting at Lakeshore high school's auditorium. The public hearing was an EPA funding requirement.

Representatives from Barger Engineering, St. Joseph, said the sewer plan calls for a public waste water collection system which will tie-in at various points with the Hickory Creek interceptor and the Twin City sewage treatment plant.

Barger engineers stressed they could not be specific on exact costs to property owners at this time because of unknown factors such as amount of the grant and rising construction costs.

However, the engineers estimated that per parcel assessments could run anywhere from $1,800 to $3,000 which could be paid off over a 20-year period at 6 to 7 per cent interest if the grant is approved.

A one-time charge for hooking into the system (from the house to the street) would cost between $700 and $900 for each hook-up, Charles Barger said. And, user charges would run between $8 and $12 per month.

Counting the special assessment figured over a 20-year period and the user charge a homeowner could figure it would cost $20 to $28 per month for the sewer service, Barger said.

The EPA deadline for accepting applications is Oct. 1, and it appears now that a bureaucratic snag in Lansing has been untangled in processing the application.

Earlier this month, township officials were stunned by a letter from the state's Water Quality division which said state reviewing agencies were overloaded with work and may not have time to process the application prior to the EPA's Oct. 1 deadline.

State Rep. Harry Gast, (R-St. Joseph), and former Lincoln township supervisor, said the township's application "now has priority attention" at the state level.

In questions from the audience, Henry Miller, 1825 Hacienda drive, questioned if all the problems of the Hickory Creek interceptor had been solved and if the interceptor could handle the township's waste both now and in the future.

Barger said it appears now the interceptor problems have been solved and the ground is stable at this time. He said the interceptor has the capacity to handle the township's load.

Anthony Larado, 5888

Longhorn trail, expressed concern that individual costs could not be pinpointed more and wondered just how much longer it was going to take before construction.

Barger said if the grant is approved and "everything runs smoothly" it would be possible that construction could start in the spring. He said it would take 540 calendar days to complete. The EPA's Piccininni told the audience Lincoln township has one "...of the fastest moving projects in the state."

Barger said the system is designed so that when one line is completed it can be put into service and residents along that line would not have to wait for the entire system to be completed.

Tom McGrath, owner of McGrath's restaurant, 4272 Red Arrow highway, said he wanted it made clear to the EPA of the "genuine feeling of need" by the people of the township for a sewer collection system. "We all want to take care of our investments,"

In 1974, Barger Engineering prepared a report breaking the township into 10 potential sewer districts. In 1976, two of those districts (No's. 6 and 9) submitted mandatory petitions to the township board requesting sewer service regardless of funding. The two districts however, were not large enough to qualify for federal funding.

It was then the township board decided to include a major portion of the township in its application. It may be a one-time chance for the township, since sewer collection system funding in the immediate future is questionable, Supervisor Bernice Tretheway said.

Following the public hearing, the township board met in special session and passed a resolution approving the engineering plan submitted by Barger Engineering. The resolution was presented to Piccininni to take back to the EPA's Chicago regional office.

WMU Teachers End Walkout

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Striking faculty members were back in their classrooms today at Western Michigan University under a tentative agreement with university administrators.

Negotiators hammered out the tentative one-year pact at a marathon 14½-hour bargaining session Monday and early today and picket lines came down at 7 a.m.

The walkout began at 8 a.m. Monday, the first day of fall classes. A university spokesman said most classes got underway as scheduled despite the strike by the campus chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

The university said about one quarter of the faculty members failed to meet their classes. The union, on the other hand, said the strike was "90 per cent effective."

Virtually all 850 WMU faculty members belong to the union. The university said 225 failed to meet classes.

The walkout was preceded by a strike vote and both sides agreed that tally was 273-258.

AAUP President Lynwood Bartley said issues in the contract dispute were salary and fringe benefits, work load requirements, student-faculty ratios and a layoff and recall clause. He refused to disclose details of the pact.

The university spokesman said the contract dispute centered around the union's desire to establish a schedule of salaries based on tenure.

University administrators said such a schedule was inappropriate for a university community because it would not recognize merit and would disregard individual accomplishments by faculty members.

Bank Robber Gets 15 Years

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Willie James Harris, 20, of Indianapolis, is under a 15-year sentence for an unarmed $24,285 bank robbery to which he pleaded guilty.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Wendell Miles imposed the sentence Monday on Harris for his part in the June 9 robbery at an Industrial State Bank branch in Kalamazoo.

Harris and his brother, Kenneth, 17, were arrested by state police who spotted a car matching the description of one used in the robbery. Troopers obtained a search warrant and found the bank loot in the car.

The brothers were arrested less than two hours after the robbery on I-94, a mile east of Watervliet, by state troopers of the Benton Harbor post.

The younger Harris was a juvenile under federal law and his case was turned over to Michigan authorities for prosecution.

Hartford Discusses New Police Policies

HARTFORD — In a public work session last night, the Hartford city council discussed but took no action on possible police department policy revisions. Mayor Wayne Nelson said proposed revisions in the policies will be studied further before being presented for action at the council's next meeting on Sept. 12.

In another area, the council agreed to devote the first meeting each month to city business, with such business taking priority over any citizen questions or requests.

Douglas Man Gets Probation

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Wendell Miles yesterday sentenced a Douglas man to three years probation, fine of $500 and ordered restitution of $140 for an extortion attempt aimed at a real estate salesman. Gregory Abrell, 20, of Douglas, was charged with using a false name and address to carry on an unlawful business by mail. He was arrested in April after sending a letter threatening the reputation of Lee Wenzel, a Douglas real estate salesman, unless Abrell was paid $2,500. Abrell was arrested when he picked up a reply to the extortion extortion note at Pullman post office south of Douglas in Allegan county.

Harassment Of 'Blues' Denied

By LARRY McDERMOTT
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Charges of discrimination and politics by the state against Michigan's largest health insurer are purely rhetorical, laughable and incredible, says the state insurance commissioner.

Commissioner Thomas Jones was responding to a charge by John C. McCabe, president of Michigan Blue Cross and Blue Shield, that the state is waging heavy handed and discriminatory regulation of the Blues for political gain.

In a speech to an East Lansing civic group Monday, McCabe said the state insurance bureau is being soft on commercial insurance companies while waging a regulatory power play to control the Blues, a nonprofit health care firm.

He said the state's legal efforts to keep a controversial consumer advocate on the Blues board have become "a political vehicle" and amount to a smokescreen to cover up discrimination against the Blues.

In a state suit filed in Wayne County Circuit Court to keep Charles Chomet on the board, the Blues were charged with illegally dumping Chomet in July. The suit says that since state law requires public representation on the board, its members can't veto a state-backed nominee.

Jones has asked the Blues to reconsider an earlier vote and approve Chomet at a Sept. 29 board meeting.

"It was the Blues who chose to remove Chuck Chomet from the board and make an issue out of the membership of one particular member," Jones said.

McCabe asked in his speech: "Could it be that the regulatory agency is not so interested in defending the public's interest as it is in being tough only in situations guaranteeing the greatest political mileage?"

The Blues president said his firm resents "being the whipping boy for commissioners who come and go." McCabe said Jones is personable, intelligent and "probably well motivated," but added, "Nothing in his background has prepared him for the role he's seeking — control of the state's health care system."

Jones said McCabe's statements were incorrect.

"I believe McCabe knows that they are, and I find them laughable, at best. I really don't want to get into a rhetoric battle. I just find the charges somewhat incredible," Jones said.

The Blues president complained that rate increase requests filed by his company, the state's largest health insurer, are "gone over with a fine tooth comb" while commercial insurance companies "normally haven't even had to file" for approval of group rates.

The House and Senate are slated to meet just one day to send a $97.5 million measure to Gov. William Milliken for his signature.

The bill is a "supplemental appropriations" measure to help the state pay its bills until the end of the fiscal year Sept. 30.

Although state budget officials say they really don't need the money before lawmakers return as scheduled on Sept. 14, legislative leaders called their troops together to provide the cash a couple of weeks early.

The key money in the bill is some $1.7 million to help convert part of Kincheloe Air Force Base into a prison. The bill also contains $2.6 million to continue state police patrols on Detroit freeways and money to fund payrolls and other costs in various departments.

Budget officials acknowledged earlier they have already spent some of the

Lawyers To Wrap Up Key Bill

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Legislature is scheduled to take final action on a key budget bill as lawmakers briefly interrupt their summer recess for a special session today.

The House and Senate are slated to meet just one day to send a $97.5 million measure to Gov. William Milliken for his signature.

The bill is a "supplemental appropriations" measure to help the state pay its bills until the end of the fiscal year Sept. 30.

Although state budget officials say they really don't need the money before lawmakers return as scheduled on Sept. 14, legislative leaders called their troops together to provide the cash a couple of weeks early.

The key money in the bill is some $1.7 million to help convert part of Kincheloe Air Force Base into a prison. The bill also contains $2.6 million to continue state police patrols on Detroit freeways and money to fund payrolls and other costs in various departments.

Budget officials acknowledged earlier they have already spent some of the money on the assumption that final legislative approval will be routine — technically a violation of the law. Administrative approval for spending the Kincheloe funds, however, was held up on an attorney general's suggestion that it may be illegal until the bill is signed.

The budget bill was held up in the final days of the legislative session as lawmakers squabbled over a separate state police appropriations measure and who should patrol Detroit freeways. That has been worked out between Milliken and Democratic leaders but is not expected to be acted on until next month.

The budget bill needs a two-thirds "immediate effect" vote in the Senate if funds are to be released upon the governor's signature. It needs general approval and a similar immediate effect vote in the House.

LMC Slated To Administer GED Test Sept. 6-7-8

The General Educational Development (GED) test to certify an educational level equivalent to high school will be administered from 5:30 to 10 p.m. Sept. 6 and 7, and 5:30 to 8 p.m. Sept. 8, in room D-201 at Lake Michigan college, Benton township. According to Gordon J. Dahm, LMC counselor and chief GED examiner, the test battery consists of five examinations, each of which takes up to two hours to complete. Successful completion of the test may serve several useful purposes, such as qualifying for admission to colleges, universities, and the Armed Forces and meeting educational requirements for employment and job advancement, Dahm said.

"The fall test session is set up primarily, but not exclusively, for persons who have just recently decided to attend Lake Michigan college on a full-time basis and need the test to allow them to do so," Dahm said. Fee for the test is $15, and $10 for a retest. Those interested in taking the series of exams must register the first night of the test session, Sept. 6, and will be required to show identification and proof of age. In order to be eligible to take the GED test a person must be at least 18 years old, and the high school class of which the applicant would have been a member must have graduated, according to Dahm. Additional information can be obtained by telephoning the LMC student services office at 927-3671, extension 204.

We're not making our car payment this month because our banker said "Skip it"

We like our new car, we like the loan that helped us buy it. Best of all... this month... we like not having to make the loan payment.

It's a part of our new Full Service Account at First National. It allows us to skip up to two instalment loan payments a year. And that's great!

All we have to do is ask, and the bank will postpone our payment until the end of the loan term without any penalty. We pay an extension fee and we can't postpone two payments in a row, but as Full Service Account depositors skipping tough payments is our right.

It's part of the Full Service Account. A Full Service Account should be part of your life.

Two Men Sent To Jail By Judge In Paw Paw

By TOM SAWYER
Staff Writer

PAW PAW — A Fennville man failed to appear for sentencing and two other men were handed jail terms yesterday in Van Buren circuit court.

A bench warrant was to be issued for Eugene McCoslin Jr., 44, Fennville. He was to be sentenced yesterday after pleading guilty earlier to breaking and entering an Artington township mobile home last April. His personal recognizance bond was to be revoked with issuance of the bench warrant, according to the court.

Judge Meyer Warshawsky sentenced Steven L. Adams, 18, of 1480 Leverssee road, Paw Paw, to nine months in the county jail. Howard R. Denison, 40, route 4, South Haven, was sentenced to eight months in county jail.

Adams had pleaded guilty to larceny in a building, liquor and meat from the C & G Party store, Paw Paw, in May. He received 106 days credit for time already served.

Denison had pleaded guilty to attempted larceny from a building, beer and cigarettes from Crystal Flash service station and party store, Lawrence township, June 30. He received credit for 61 days already served.

Thomas Carplita, 29, Park Forest, Ill., pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted carrying a concealed weapon, a pistol near Paw Paw, December, 1976. A second count of carrying a concealed weapon stemming from the same incident was dismissed. A personal recognizance bond was continued.

Jay Cowell, 22, South Haven, pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder. The charge stems from an incident Oct. 2, 1976 outside the Phoenix Inn, Geneva township. Eugene Cisen, Fennville, said his jaw was broken in a fight with a man. A personal recognizance bond was continued.

Nathan Brooks, 18, Cassopolis, pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted larceny by conversion. A charge of larceny by conversion was dismissed. Both counts stemmed from an incident involving the failure to return a car loaned on approval from Decker Olds-Cadillac, South Haven. Bond was continued.

Bobby Holt, 29, Pultman, pleaded guilty to one count of attempted forgery. Charges of forgery and uttering and publishing were dismissed. He is accused of attempting to cash a forged check at the First National bank of Lawton in May. Bond was continued.

Victor Tucker, 22, Lake street, Covert, pleaded guilty to a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. One count of possession of a firearm during the commission of a felony was dismissed. He is accused of pointing a gun at employees and customers June 6 at the Blue Star lounge, Covert. His personal recognizance bond was continued.

Wayne Taylor, 28, route 2, Coloma, pleaded innocent to a charge of larceny in a building, Aug. 8. He is accused of taking three cartons of cigarettes at Hardings Market, Hartford. His bond was continued.

Thomas M. Clark, 21, Gobles, pleaded innocent to a charge of breaking and entering. He is accused of breaking into a coin operated device on July 30 in Pine Grove township. His personal recognizance bond was continued.

Darrel P. Huff, 38, Holland, pleaded innocent to a charge of driving under the influence of liquor, third offense, July 19, in South Haven. His bond was continued.

An innocent plea was entered for Robert Goyer, 30, Hartford, on a charge of failure to return rented property valued at more than $100. He is accused of failing to return a car rented in South Haven in July. His bond was continued. A guilty plea entered by Goyer was refused.

Arthur Minshall, 31, route 2, Bangor, pleaded guilty to one count of attempted delivery of PCP (an animal tranquilizer drug). He pleaded innocent to separate charges of delivery of marijuana, delivery of PCP and delivery of LSD. The charges all stemmed from the alleged sale of suspected drugs to an under-

PROJECT NAME: 1877 HARTFORD STREET IMPROVEMENTS

The City of Hartford, Michigan will receive sealed bids for the construction of street improvements until 4:30 P.M. Local Time, August 31, 1977, at the Hartford City Hall, Hartford, Michigan 48057. At which time all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

The work includes: Repaving of approximately 12,700 sq. ft. of City streets with 2 inch thick bituminous concrete at 220 ft./sq. ft.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish a satisfactory performance and labor and material bond.

The contract documents, including plans and specifications, are on file at the office of the Engineer, Wightman and Associates, Inc., 920 Broad Street, St. Joseph, Michigan 49085, and may be obtained at the office of the Engineer by depositing $15.00 for each set of documents so obtained. The full amount of deposit will be refunded upon return of all documents in good condition within ten (10) days after receipt of bids.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive any irregularities in bidding.

A certified check or bank draft payable to the Owner or a satisfactory bid bond executed by the bidder and a surety company, in an amount equal to 5 percent of the bid shall be submitted with each bid.

No bid may be withdrawn after the scheduled closing time for receipt of bids for at least thirty (30) days.

BIDS WANTED FOR BENTON TOWNSHIP SAFETY BUILDING, PHASE I & II

Benton Township will accept proposals for a new safety building on Thursday, October 3, 1977, at 2:00 p.m. Bids will be received at the Township Meeting Room in the Benton Township Administrative Office, 1725 Territorial Road, Benton Harbor, Michigan, and then opened and publicly read aloud immediately at the time indicated.

Separate bids will be taken for the following:

1. General Construction
 2. Mechanical
 3. Plumbing
 4. Electrical
- Drawings and specifications under which the work is to be done are on file at the following locations:

1. Benton Township Building Department, 1725 Territorial Road, Benton Harbor, Mich.
2. Architect's Studio: Richard A. Schramm, Architect, 2001 S. 4th St. Kal., Michigan 48009
3. Builder's Exchange of Kalamazoo, 2830 Lovers Lane, Kalamazoo, Michigan
4. Tri-County Contractor's Association, 1017 Porter, Kalamazoo, Michigan
5. F.W. Dodge Corporation, 4090 Portage Street, Kalamazoo, Michigan

Proposal forms, plans, and specifications may be obtained from Benton Township Building Department with a plan deposit of $50.00. One set of plans and specifications will be issued to principal bidders. Additional plans will be available at cost at the studio of Richard A. Schramm, Architect, 2001 S. 4th St., Kalamazoo, Michigan, 48009, 616/375-2472.

A pre-bid conference will be held Thursday, September 8, 1977 at 2:00 p.m. at the Benton Township Meeting Room 1725 Territorial Road, Benton Harbor, Michigan.

A certified check or a bidder's bond payable to Benton Township for the sum of not less than five (5%) per cent of the amount of the proposal will be required with each proposal to secure the township from loss or damage by reason of the withdrawal of the bid or the failure of the bidder to enter into a contract of performance if the bid is accepted by the township.

No bid may be withdrawn for at least forty-five (45) days.

The township reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids and/or to accept that bid which in the judgement of the township will serve the best interest of the township. The township reserves the right to postpone the bid opening for its own convenience.

Suspect In Death Plot Case Claims Entrapment

Berrien Circuit Judge William S. White yesterday took under advisement one motion and advised another from a Sodus man seeking to quash charges against him in an alleged murder and extortion plot.

During the hearing an attorney for James E. Robertson, 30, claimed Robertson was a victim of entrapment and that the charges against him were unconstitutional. Robertson is charged with two counts of inciting to commit first degree murder.

He is accused of soliciting a Sister Lakes man to act as a "hit man" in a scheme to extort some $400,000 from a wealthy Nashville, Tenn., couple, and then kill them. The targets of the alleged plot were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van Lear.

Atty. Harry Creager challenged the constitutionality of the charges, arguing that the statute is vague about solicitation and that the alleged act was never completed. White denied that motion, ruling that case law holds that solicitation itself is the crime.

White made no ruling on the entrapment argument from Creager, but ordered the defense and prosecution to submit briefs. The judge said he should make his ruling about mid-September.

Creager contended that Joseph Florey, the man who was allegedly to be the hit man, induced Robertson to give details of the alleged plot on orders from police.

The prosecution alleges the plot began in June, 1976, and continued until April 5, 1977, when Robertson was arrested as he allegedly was preparing to leave for Nashville with Florey. Robertson is free on $82,000 property bond. No date has yet been set for trial.

After the hearing, White noted that the law under which Robertson is charged was passed by the legislature in 1968, and said to his knowledge no one has yet been prosecuted in the state under the statute.

LIZ OUT: Elizabeth Taylor, 45, who spent two weeks in Washington's Georgetown Hospital for back injuries, was released Monday in "greatly improved condition," a spokesman for the actress said. (AP Wirephoto)

Hoosier Brothers Must Spend Vacations In Jail

Berrien Circuit Judge Julian E. Hughes yesterday sentenced two Indiana brothers to probation. But he ordered that for the next two years each is to spend their two-week vacations in jail.

Sentenced for resisting arrest were Rodney Czarnecki, 18, and Richard Czarnecki, 19, both of LaCrosse, Ind., who were also assessed $300 fine and costs each. The pair was charged with resisting State Police Trooper Peter Rahm April 25 in New Buffalo township while the officer was transporting them to the county jail on disorderly conduct charges.

Hughes ordered each to spend two weeks of their vacation time in jail by August, 1978, and the same for the following year, with all jail time to be completed by August, 1979.

Judge Chester J. Byrns also imposed a 15-weekend jail term on Kelly O'Brien, 22, of 404 LaSalle avenue, St. Joseph, after placing him on two years probation for breaking and entering a motor vehicle. Byrns also assessed $300 fine and costs.

O'Brien was charged with breaking into the auto of Mark Dellsie in St. Joseph on Aug. 29, 1976.

In another sentence by Hughes, Robert S. Sargent, 29, of 602 North Fifth street, Niles, was placed on one year probation and ordered to pay $250 fine and costs for possession of PCP Jan. 22 in Niles.

In arraignments before Judge William S. White: Rodney G. Robinson, 18, and Robbie L. Robinson, 22, both of 2418 Irving drive, Benton township, pleaded innocent to charges of armed robbery. They are accused of using a gun to rob Patricia Callender of cash Aug. 9 at Mike's party store in Benton township.

Bennie L. Albert, 21, of 455 Broadway, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of unarmed robbery of Carl Moritz Aug. 3 in Benton Harbor.

Scott O. Early, 17, of 1202 State street, St. Joseph, pleaded guilty to malicious destruction of property (windows and doors) valued at more than $100 at St. Joseph high school on Feb. 20.

Richard P. Fitzer, 18, of 1172 Summer street, Benton township, and Robert L. James, 18, of Fairplain, pleaded guilty to assault with intent to rob while armed. They are charged with assaulting Dennis Hill with a shotgun and starter's pistol Aug. 6 at the Arco station on Napier avenue in Benton township.

Phillip J. McPeck, 30, of 801 Timberlane, Berrien Springs, pleaded guilty to second degree criminal sexual conduct — sexual contact with a girl under the age of 13, occurring between April, 1975, and December, 1976.

Wanna Talk To Computer?

DOWAGIAC — Southwestern Michigan college here will offer a fall term evening class in computer language called Common Business Oriented Language (COBOL), according to SMC officials.

The four-credit course will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 10 p.m. COBOL is the most commonly used computer language because it is written in sentences rather than mathematical symbols. Students may pre-register for the course through Friday, or can enter the class during regular registration, Sept. 6 and 7, a college spokesman said.

Twenty-One Persons Face District Court Judges

A man accused of leading police on an 11-mile chase at speeds of up to 100 miles per hour early Saturday was sentenced to 30 days in jail after he pleaded guilty in Berrien Fifth District court to two traffic charges.

Jerry D. Fontress, 20, of Box 223A, Shanghai road, Eau Claire, was sentenced to 30 days, a fine and costs of $200 and six months probation for fleeing and eluding a police officer. Fontress received a concurrent sentence of $100 fine and costs or 30 days for reckless driving.

Both sentences were handed down by Judge John T. Hamner Saturday.

The chase began about 2:30 a.m. on M-139 at Fairplain Plaza and ended in Pipestone township when the auto skidded through a guard rail and into a ditch off Park road.

In other court action yesterday and Saturday:

Ovetta D. Elizer (also known as Elzer), 21, of 719 Buss avenue, Benton Harbor, demanded a preliminary examination when arraigned on a felony charge of carrying a concealed weapon — a knife — in the 200 block of Territorial road, Benton Harbor, on Aug. 27. She failed to post $5,000 bond and was jailed.

William J. Bolin, 60, of Matton, Ill., demanded a hearing on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon — a .38-caliber pistol — at the Benton Harbor fruit market Aug. 27. He was released on $5,000 bond.

Johnnie Mae Sanders, 28, of 706 Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, apartment No. 3, demanded a hearing on a charge of breaking and entering apartment No. 2 at that building on May 6. She was released on a $2,500 personal recognizance bond.

Seventeen people were sentenced for misdemeanors. Mark Sommerville, 18, Chicago, Ill., was sentenced to pay $200 fine and costs on charges of drunk and disorderly and assault and battery of the arresting officer, Trooper David Hettiger, at the Forest Beach YMCA camp in New Buffalo township on Aug. 27.

Larry Eugene Jordan, 28, Nashville, Tenn., was sentenced to pay $105 for reckless use of a weapon — a .22-caliber derringer — reduced from carrying a concealed weapon, on Aug. 28 in Benton township.

Luther Sikes Jr., 47, 184 Brunson avenue, Benton Harbor, was sentenced to 15 days in jail for contempt of court — failure to pay $50 fines and costs due from a July 1 conviction of carrying a firearm while intoxicated.

Donald Lee Worlds, 31, South Bend, Ind., was sentenced to pay $155 or 30 days in jail for driving while under the influence of intoxicants, second offense, in Benton township.

Sex Books For Sale--Cheap

REDFIELD, Iowa (AP) — The Redfield Community School District is trying to unload 25 college-level sex education books at cost. School Superintendent Paul Jones said the district ordered 25 copies of James McCary's "Human Sexuality" for the district's junior high school sex education classes. McCary also wrote a college-level book with the same name, but a different subtitle. "When the secretaries were stamping the 'Dexfield Schools' label in the books, one of them noticed that on one page, there were pictures of couples in different coital positions," said Jones. A quick check of the books' prefaces showed they are "designed for college courses."

The junior high level books have been ordered, and Jones said the district will sell the college-level books to "anybody in the community who wants to buy them" — at no profit.
